Iran claims it's caught U.S. drone

IRANIAN state telly has shown images of what it says is an unmanned U.S. drone captured in its airspace. The bonkers country's Revolutionary Guards said they had brought down a ScanEagle – one of the smaller, less sophisticated drones employed by the Yanks. Rear Admiral Ali Fadavi told the Fars news agency that the drone had conducted several reconnaissance flights over the Gulf in recent days. But the U.S. Navy said none of its drones was missing in the Middle East. Other nations in the region, including the United Arab Emirates, also operate ScanEagles – a low-cost aircraft with a 10ft wingspan. Fadavi said: "such drones are usually launched from large warships", adding that the drone was captured "in the last few days."

ALL EYES ON POORLY KATE

THE eyes of the world were on the King Edward VII hospital yesterday where the Duchess of Cambridge – who is with child – is being treated for severe morning sickness.

Prince William arrived at 11.30am in a green Land Rover and went straight into the private hospital without acknowledging waiting hacks and snappas. The world's media are camped outside the private hospital in central London waiting for any news about the future queen and her unborn child – who will become our monarch.

Kate is suffering from hyperemesis gravidarum, which can leave women unable to keep down food and fluids, and carrying twins may increase the chances of developing the illness. St James's Palace wouldn't comment on her condition but in a statement released yesterday it stated that as her pregnancy was in its "very early stages" she was "expected to stay in hospital for several days and will require a period of rest thereafter".

Visits from the Duchess's family – her parents Carole and Michael Middleton and sister Pippa – are also likely.

TWO women and a child have been seriously hurt in a crash on a level crossing. British Transport Police said a train collided with a car at the Beech Hill crossing on Springs Road near Finningley, Doncaster, at 12.35pm. A spokesman said: "The three occupants of the car, two women and a child, were seriously injured. The child has since been airlifted to hospital. The train is upright and on the tracks. Passengers have been removed." No-one on the train was injured, added the spokesman.

COMMON SENSE: Boris

Boris heads for clash with PM over ties with EU

BORIS Johnson made his most brazen bid yet for the Tory crown, calling for Britain to PULL OUT of major parts of the European Union.

In a clear shot across David Cameron's bows, London Mayor Boris said Britain should negotiate a return to a "single market" relationship with the EU, and then put it to a referendum. The intervention puts clear water between the Mayor and Mr Cameron – long-time rivals in the Conservative party. Mr Cameron insists the UK must remain at the "heart" of Europe and famously denied Brits a vote on the EU Lisbon Treaty – which handed

By SIMON DEAN
simon@sundaysport.co.uk

more power to Brussels. Boris – who is favourite to replace David Cameron if the Tories lose the next election – said this "pared down" relationship was "essential and deliverable". He added that if voters did not like it they could opt to leave the EU altogether and that it was "high time" the British people had a chance to vote on the issue. Britain should abandon the goal of being "at the heart of Europe" and instead demand a "common sense" relationship which preserves our freedom to set our own interest rates and taxes and gets rid of much bureaucracy coming from Brussels, said the Mayor in a speech in London's Docklands.

Slammed

And he set himself on collision course with Mr Cameron and Chancellor George Osborne over their support for closer fiscal union within the eurozone, which he slammed as "anti-democratic". Boris said that the UK could establish a similar position in relation to the EU as that of Norway or Switzerland, with the advantage of remaining within the councils which determine the rules.

The euro had shown itself to be "a calamitous project", and plans for fiscal union would "make a bad situation worse", said the Mayor.

With the EU increasingly consumed by projects to establish closer union between the eurozone states, "we can no longer pretend that this country is at the heart of Europe".

A Westminster source said: "Boris is going after Cam's job – and he's going in hard."

Union Flag riot police 'did right'

TOP cops defended the police operation at Belfast City Hall that led to rioting and injuries on Monday night. Eighteen people, including 15 cops, were hurt after loyalists rioted when the council decided to no longer fly the Union Flag every day. Chief Superintendent Alan McCrum said the handling had been "proportionate". He added: "We were trying to police this in a way that enabled the commercial life of the city centre to go on and at the same time provide a level of support and reassurance to facilitate the business that went on in City Hall. "I think the policing operation was proportionate, it was considered." Trouble started after news of the vote to take down the Union Flag was communicated to the protesters. Some forced their way into the back yard of the City Hall and clashed with police. Sinn Féin Policing Board member Gerry Kelly said the police operation had been inadequate. He said: "It was a disgraceful police operation, or lack of one. If that had been 1,000 republicans out there they would not have left it that they were able to come in."

Cam: Get your eds together

NEWSPAPER editors have been warned by David Cameron that they must act "urgently" to set up an independent press regulator. The Prime Minister took part in a summit of senior industry figures at Number 10 to hear proposals for a new regime not backed by law. Culture Secretary Maria Miller has made clear that the option of legislation called for by the Leveson Report remains if progress cannot be made. Mr Cameron wrote on Twitter: "I've just spoken to newspaper editors in No 10 telling them they need to set up an independent regulator urgently." Speaking after taking part in the high-level meeting, Mr Cameron said he had made clear that "the clock is ticking" for the industry to agree action. "They have got to do it in a way that absolutely meets the requirement of Lord Justice Leveson's report. I told them the clock is ticking for this to be sorted out."

Nat: I decked a Dingle in a TV sex scene!

EMMERDALE star Natalie J Robb has lifted the lid on her on-screen sex antics.

The actress – who plays bed-hopping Moira Barton in the ITV1 soap – says she once INJURED co-star Jeff Hordley, who plays Cain Dingle, during a steamy romp.

Moira and Cain had a passionate fling last year and are set to rekindle their romance in the coming weeks.

But last time they were at it on screen Natalie got carried away and winded Jeff.

She said: "I remember winding him when I thrust him against a car. That went out on the 8pm slot, so they just got away with it, but it worked."

"I think that's why they want to recreate Cain and Moira. It works on screen."

But while her on-screen alter ego is getting plenty of sex, Natalie herself says she is single.

The 37-year-old added: "As far as a man goes, I can quite happily take my time there. And, hey, I get enough action on set!"

Leona reveals stripping secret

X FACTOR winner Leona Lewis has lifted the lid on her secret naturist holiday.

The singer has been dubbed boring but she finally revealed something interesting about herself and confessed she once went to a nudist camp.

She said: "I like to skinny dip! Well, I went on holiday on my own to a nudist colony but it wasn't on purpose."

"It was quite fun though because no-one knew me and I was there on my own – I had a nice time while I was there!"

The Bleeding Love warbler, 27, says she didn't mind whipping her kit off after seeing the other nudists' bodies.

She added: "It wasn't like it was full of models – It was people of all shapes and sizes. I've got a lot of respect for people who do that."

Breast scan woman gets struck from profession

A BLUNDERING radiographer who misinterpreted scans, inappropriately scanned a woman's breast and checked another person while leaving the door open, has been struck off.

Marjorie Linton was removed from the professional register for her failings, as well as for the manner in which she dealt with patients and complaints.

A Health and Care Professions Council panel, which regulates medics, said: "She failed on 12 occasions to appropriately interpret ultrasound images."

"Marjorie Linton also inappropriately carried out a scan of a patient's breast when the patient had attended for an abdominal examination."

"She also failed to respect patient dignity by scanning one patient with the door open."

"The panel further heard that Marjorie Linton failed to communicate with patients in an appropriate manner as an Advanced Practitioner in Medical Ultrasound at Ashford and St Peter's NHS Foundation Trust."

The panel also expressed their concern over her apparent denial about her conduct.

Care worker's sex with boy

THE principal of a special school walked in on a woman care worker who had been having sex with a 17-year-old boy.

He found Amanda McNally (above), 41, hiding behind a bed with the half-naked teenager in his room at the.

The principal saw a silhouette behind the bed. The boy emerged without his top on and was asked: "What's happening?"

McNally then appeared saying they had been looking for a paint brush as they were decorating his flat, St Albans crown court heard.

The boy later confessed to sex taking place.

McNally of Ware, Herts admitted sexual activity with a child while in a position of trust.

She was jailed 14 months and banned from ever working with children.

DRUGS CHARGE: John Griffiths leaves court

COP MISSED 999 CALL TO BUY COCAINE

Detective met his crack dealer, court hears

A DRUG addict detective slipped away from police duties to allegedly buy rocks of crack cocaine, a court heard.

Det Con John "Sam" Griffiths, 31, should have been trying to nab burglars.

But instead he allegedly sneaked off during a Boxing Day shift to pay his pusher £50 for a quantity of the Class A narcotic, it was claimed.

During the shift he also allegedly put off colleagues

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

who asked him to go to the scene of a break in - falsely claiming he was a committed to an inquiry then eventually turning up 35 minutes later.

Later, in the run up to another meeting, Griffiths allegedly texted the dealer saying: "Mate it is my birthday and I want to meet you but last time it was rubbish. Is it rock this time? I will get a few if it is good," a jury heard. Other texts allegedly read: "Hi mate that stuff was okay on Friday but it was mixed. If you give me a pure bag I will give you £80."

The court heard another said: "I'm hearing good things my friend, save one for me and I'll be there later. Ten minutes pal get me a good one ready."

But the officer was arrested along with the drug dealer's Albanian runner Bledi Malec, 32, after police watched as they allegedly completed a drug deal near a Manchester hotel. Manchester Crown Court was told that when interviewed, Griffiths, who worked for Cheshire Police in Warrington, said he had been regularly using cocaine for 12 months.

Prosecuting, Richard Vardon told the jury: "He had been a police officer for eight years but it is clear that the reality of John Griffiths was very different to the impression he may have given."

"He was a regular user of cocaine and was in frequent contact with a drug dealer in the Manchester area. A police officer and a regular repeated user of class A drugs are incompatible and in conflict with each other."

"The charges he faces represent a manifestation between his duty to uphold the law and serve the public against his selfish set of priorities in which the interests of the public were beneath his own."

Griffiths denies misconduct in public office and one count of possession of a Class A drug. The trial continues.

Naked nut is jailed for statue folly

A NAKED man who climbed up the Duke of Cambridge statue in Whitehall and broke its sword has been jailed.

Dan Motrescu, 29, clambered up the statue before stripping off and "attacking" it in broad daylight.

During the incident the homeless Ukrainian attempted to break the Duke's head off, and snapped his two front teeth when he sunk them into the Grade II listed bronze statue.

At one point he was pictured sitting on the Duke's head completely naked before police coaxed him down after a three-hour stand-off.

It is thought he was having some sort of 'psychotic episode' brought on drugs and alcohol, but Motrescu doesn't remember anything about it.

He pleaded guilty to causing £5,000 worth of criminal damage, using threatening words and behaviour and having a sharpened screwdriver in his possession.

He was jailed for 12 weeks by Westminster magistrates.

Motrescu will be sent back to the Ukraine after his sentence.

Paralysed scooter looter pleads guilty

A PARALYSED MAN went shoplifting in his mobility scooter, a court heard yesterday.

Roy Storey stole a pair of £28 jogging bottoms from a sports shop and a £44 bottle of whiskey from a supermarket, hiding the goods on him after using a screwdriver to remove security tags.

His solicitor Lynda Hodgson told a court: "He is a paraplegic. He had surgery to remove a cyst on his spine which left him paralysed. He has limited arm movements and cannot walk."

Prosecutor Lyndsey Baker said Storey, 46, from Exeter, had 55 previous convictions before the surgery.

Storey's lawyer admitted two theft charges on his behalf and he was given a 12 month conditional discharge.

NYMPHO TEACHER'S TIMETABLE OF SEX WITH 5 BOYS

A BLONDE schoolmistress is behind bars today after admitting enticing FIVE boy pupils into steamy sex sessions.

Married Emma Webb, who enjoyed romps with the teenagers at her school, also sent naked pictures of herself playing with sex toys and graphic texts.

A judge heard that she had unprotected sex with the pupils and slammed her for grooming the boys by taking them out for meals at Kentucky Fried Chicken and giving them lifts to school.

Webb was given a 32-month jail term after Reading Crown Court heard she performed sexual favours for the boys during free periods and while they were in detention.

The 42-year-old supply teacher admitted a total of 30 charges relating to the offences involving five boys at the secondary school where she taught.

Special

The court heard that Webb told one 15-year-old that if he told anyone about the texts she would lose her job and that her plumber husband Andy "had a history of violence", so the youngster would "end up with no kneecaps".

Webb started asking the boy to visit her so she could perform oral sex on him but he initially declined, said prosecutor Simon Heptonstall.

"The texts became quite clear - asking him

By LUCY CROSSLEY
news@sundaysport.co.uk

to come around when she would suck him off, put his dick in her pussy and ride him till they came, and lick it all up," said Mr Heptonstall.

He added: "She said he was her special boy."

Mum-of-two Webb then moved on to another student, who was 16, and after taking him to KFC with a group of boys in his year, Webb started texting him asking him to go to her home for sex.

When the boy obliged, Webb gave him oral sex, saying, "we shouldn't be doing this".

Oral

On another visit during one of his free periods at school she gave him oral sex again, before the pair had full intercourse and they would continue to meet up around twice a week.

"There was never any use of contraception, he either ejaculated in or on her on virtually every occasion," the court heard.

The third boy was sent to the school's intervention room where Webb lifted up her skirt and told him to touch her sexually, which he did until the school bell sounded some 10 or 15 minutes later.

"She followed that up by sending him naked photographs by mobile telephone where she was wearing a black bra and holding a black dildo," said Mr Heptonstall.

On another occasion she asked the boy to walk her dog with her, only for them to have sex on her staircase.

"She came down wearing a short skirt saying she was horny. She undid his trousers and gave him oral sex. She pulled up her skirt, moved her knickers to one side. They had sex on the stairs.

Explicit

"That stopped when she decided to change positions and said she wanted it up the bum. He declined, pulled out and ejaculated. He was taken back to school."

The court heard that Webb had shown the fourth boy explicit photos of herself using sex toys. The pair later went on to have unprotected sexual intercourse.

On one occasion they went to her house and she touched his penis under his clothes.

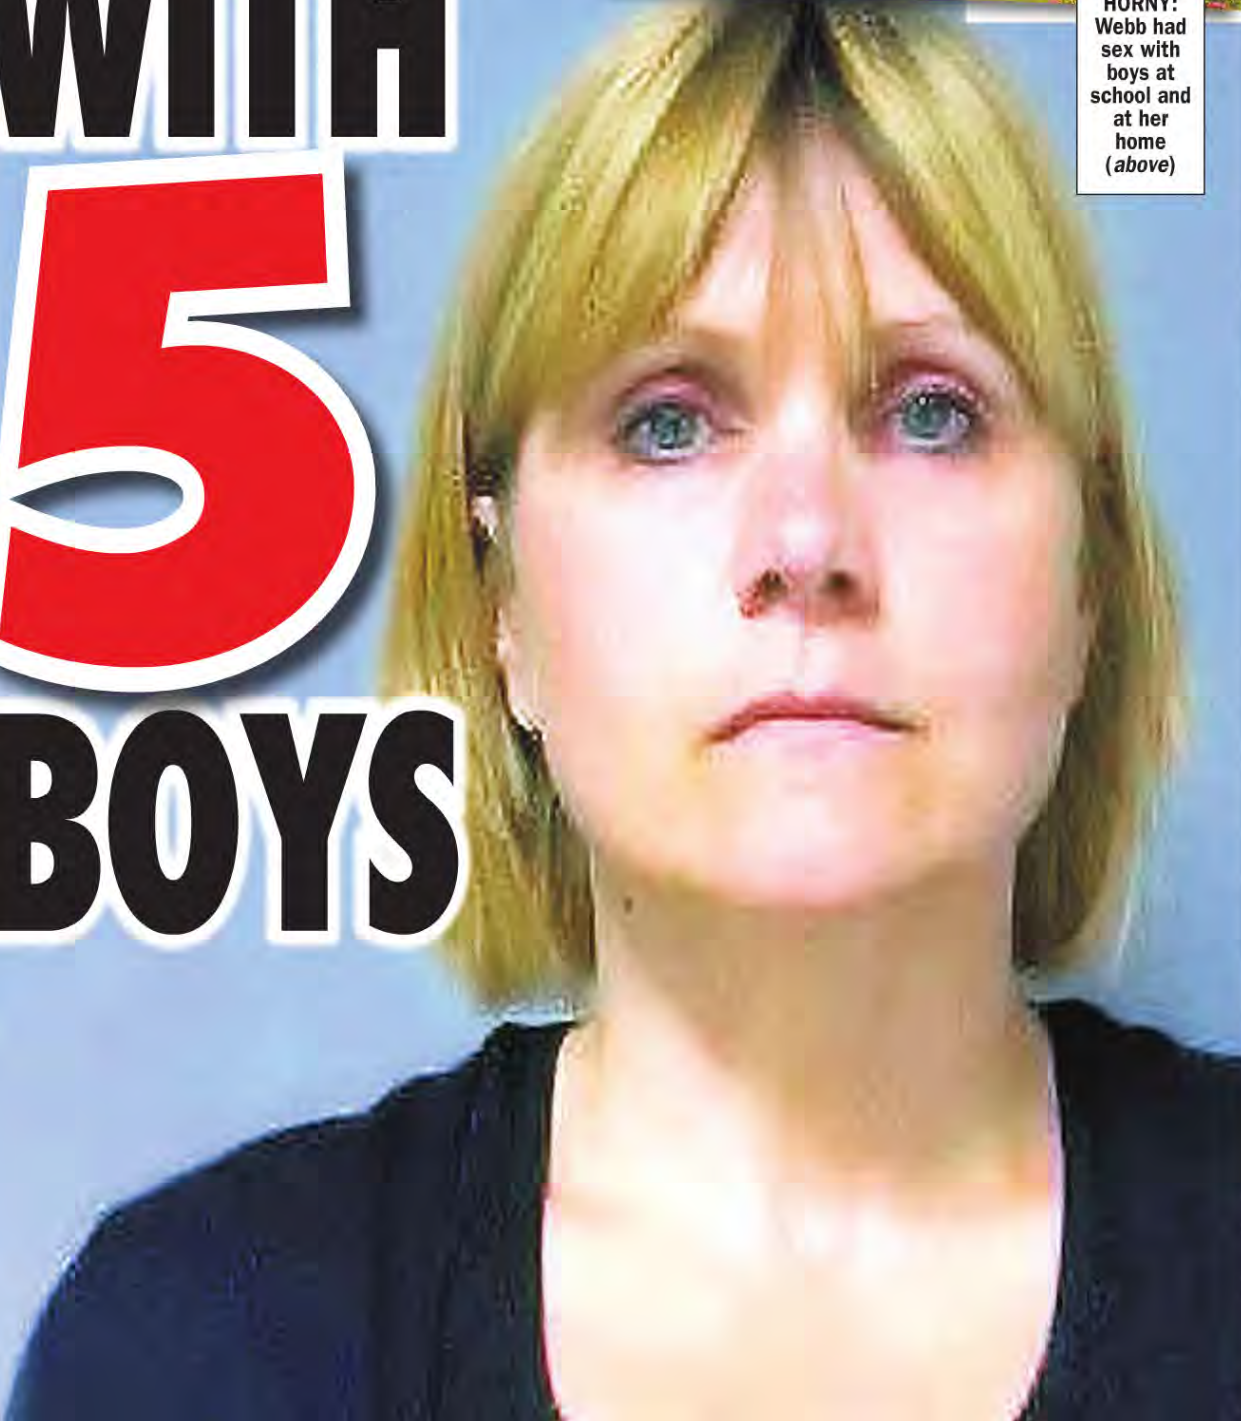

Webb then moved the boy's hand suggestively to her crotch. "She made him finger her," said Mr Heptonstall.

Webb, of Woodley, near Reading, Berks, - who had been suspended from the school - admitted charges of causing or inciting sexual activity with a child but denied perverting the course of justice.

Webb's husband was not present in court.

Pensioner who killed 'burglar' nephew walks free from court

A PENSIONER who drunkenly stabbed his nephew to death after mistaking him for a burglar has walked free from court.

Ezekiel McCarthy, 85, was confused and convinced that Desbert Welsh, 50, had broken into his flat.

After knifing his victim, he stamped on his head, shouting, "This bloody man, I don't know how he got into my room".

McCarthy was paranoid he would be targeted and put a knife under his bed for protection.

One of the oldest defendants to appear the Old Bailey, he was originally charged with Mr Welsh's murder.

But a plea to a lesser charge of manslaughter was accepted.

Judge Peter Beaumont QC, handed him a nine-month jail-term, suspended for two years.

He told McCarthy: "You took the life, violently and with a knife, of a wholly innocent man who had shown you nothing but friendship and support."

"That has to be marked by a sentence of imprisonment which, having regard to the circumstances in which it took place and to your age, previous good character and what has been said in your favour about the sort of person you are, permit me to suspend the sentence."

WHAT'S ON YOUR SEX BUCKET LIST?

Posting unfulfilled fantasies is the latest online craze

SEX-CRAZED Brit babes are posting their kinkiest unfulfilled fantasies on the internet as part of a saucy new craze.

The Sex Bucket List shows off the sexy shenanigans UK women would secretly like to indulge in before they die.

Orgies, phone nookie and lesbian romps top the no-holds barred chart, with Fifty Shades of Grey style S&M bondage sessions also featuring fairly prominently.

It's an X-rated twist on the traditional Bucket List of mainstream activities to try before you die - or 'kick the bucket' - like doing a parachute or bungee jumping.

But this lusty list includes far more interesting escapades - such as swinging, sex in the sea and filming amateur PORN!

Threesome

The phenomenon was kick-started by website The Stir.com, when top girly author Sasha Brown-Worsham unleashed a top 50 Things to Do Sexually Before You Die.

Her top five were 'kiss a girl', 'have anal', 'have a threesome', 'engage in group sex', and 'have phone sex'.

And now kinky ladies are rushing to post their very own saucy run-downs on Facebook and Twitter.

Top UK sex counsellor Dr Jane Harrold, of the University of West Lancashire, said: "We all have our hidden kinks and fantasies and some are more extreme than others."

"But it's perfectly healthy to desire new experiences in the bedroom."

"Whether that's with one or more partners - is completely up to you!"

And Krystal gets into the swing of things too!

MIDWEEK Sport glamour girl Krystal Webb is ready for take-off - because she's desperate to join the Mile High Club!

The 27-year-old topless model has uploaded her sexual bucket list online - and says all her friends are now doing the same.

And here the 32G brunette from Birmingham lifts the lid on her top five, X-rated adventures that she's yet to experience - from tantric nookie to SWINGING parties!

Krystal revealed: "It's a brilliant new craze and it's really liberating to lay your sexual desires bare like that."

"It feels empowering because all these women are standing up and saying, 'This is what I want, and I'm not embarrassed to admit it'."

"Some of the things on people's lists are extreme, even for the likes of me, but most of them just sound very sexy."

"So come on, boys, help your ladies live out their sex bucket lists!"

KRYSTAL'S TOP FIVE

- 1 DRESS LIKE RIHANNA - from her S&M video and become a total dominatrix, complete with whips and chains.
- 2 TO ATTEND A SWINGERS' PARTY - I love the idea of the men not knowing who you are. I find that very naughty. It's pure voyeurism being able to watch strangers having sex.
- 3 GO ON A SEX HOLIDAY - there's a place called Hedonism in Jamaica, which is a hotel for swingers. People walk around naked and everyone has sex with each other. It's sun, sea and sex to the extreme!
- 4 JOIN THE MILE HIGH CLUB - I could do it on my way to the sex holiday in Jamaica! It's something I want to tick off the list, preferably in a bed in first class, rather than in the loos!
- 5 SEX THERAPY - I like the idea of learning tantric sex or having a sex therapist to give me tips on how to improve my technique. I doubt I'd be able to get a bloke to go with me though!

N-word rap fan cleared of racism

A RAP music fan who shouted the word n*r at a black man has walked free from court after a JPs agreed he'd just been using "street slang".

Christopher Jones, 43, was arrested after he was overheard directing the offensive word at a group which included a black male.

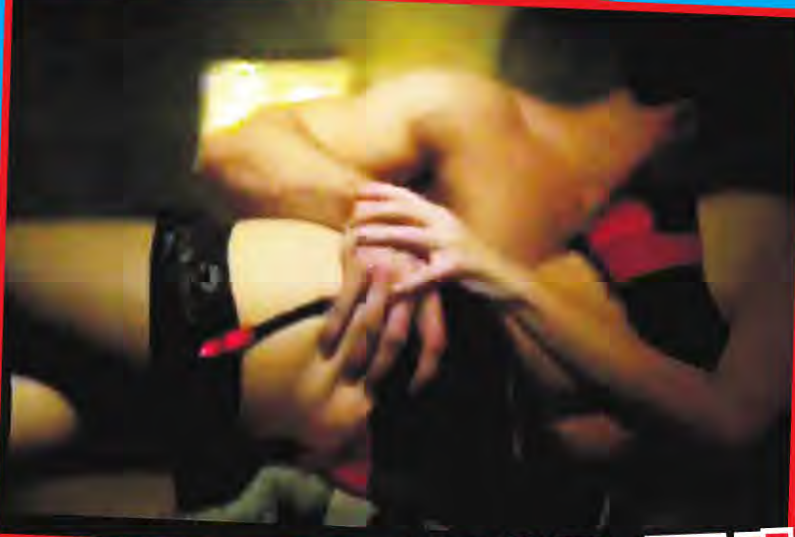

Police charged him with using racially-aggravated words or behaviour and he was hauled into court.

But the signwriter pleaded not guilty and claimed he couldn't be racist because he listened to hip-hop music and had "more black friends than white friends."

And he was cleared of racist abuse by JPs after arguing that he regularly uses the word n*r as "a term of endearment" on the streets around his home in Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs.

North Staffordshire Magistrates ruled Jones (above) had used the phrase without hostility and dismissed the case.

However anti-race campaigner Colley Sykes said: "It is the last word you should use towards someone who is black."

TOO HOT FOR TV!

Ann Summers forced to cut ad

THESE are the bits saucy undies giant Ann Summers had to cut their latest advert because it was TOO HOT for telly.

They shot a super-steamy promo featuring a red-hot sex scene.

But they were ordered to cut half of the minute-long film because it was too raunchy for television.

The 30-second censored version was first aired during the live episode of The Only Way Is Essex on Monday night.

The ad for Ann Summers' sexy smalls shows a festive scene and a couple romping in front of a roaring fire.

Wearing red and black satin and lace undies the woman leaves little to the imagination as she lets her man fondle her in a steamy clinch.

'I hope Simon Cowell's demonic jizz boils through your vocal cords...'

Frankie Boyle's Twitter war with X Factor's James gets very nasty FUNNYMAN Frankie Boyle stepped up his war with X Factor singer James Arthur with a rant about Simon Cowell's TOXIC SPERM!

The Scottish comedian made the accusation during a three-day Twitter row with the talent show contestant.

Boyle, 40, bombarded the site with acid-tongued observations about the Middlesbrough-born singer.

One of the former Mock The Week star's most barbed tweets read:

"James Arthur looks like someone put a sheep's teeth into a baby's head #Xfactor."

Another suggested the best Arthur can look forward to in the future is a career as a BUSKER.

And when Arthur hit back, the comic then criticised the singer's spelling and ramped up the bile even further saying: "I hope you didn't spell your own tattoos."

"I also hope Simon's jizz boils through your vocal cords."

The X Factor finalist then hit back, tweeting: "Poor old man making yet more shit jokes about X Factor because he knows that's the only way he can get attention any more #prat."

To which Boyle replied: "I think if I wanted attention I'd sing covers on a talent show, inked up like a school desk in a remedial class."

Aids

The row continued as Arthur, 24 – a strong contender to win this year's ITV1 talent show – wrote: "Your about as funny as aids. Your a sad man and I can't wait to see you coz it's about time someone gave you a reality check."

SPAT: Boyle (above) and James went to war on Twitter

But his English was again targeted by Boyle, who said: "Comedians make jokes about tits singing karaoke songs on talent shows you snaggle-toothed grammar holocaust. Deal with it."

Arthur eventually tried to draw a line under the feud saying: "No more tweets about Boyle I'm not giving him the publicity he clearly desires so don't tweet me about it please. I'm all about positivity."

To which Boyle quickly replied: "No hard feelings. When I see you I'll throw some money in your hat."

BRAVE BOBBY'S ONE-MAN FOOTIE RIOT SQUAD

A POLICEMAN broke up a mass pub brawl between dozens of rival football fans and single-handedly made NINE arrests.

Heroic PC Andrew Francis tackled fans from West Bromwich Albion and Queens Park Rangers after glasses, bottles and BRICKS were thrown inside the Wagon and Horses in West Bromwich, West Mids, in front of women and children on April 14.

PC Francis acted as a one-man riot squad when he charged into the brawl and made the arrests, before back-up arrived.

The modest officer yesterday insisted he was just doing his job, saying: "It was a scary experience and one which law-abiding fans should not have to put up with."

"West Bromwich is a safe place for fans to enjoy their football and we're determined to ensure it stays that way."

"Every police officer wants to protect the innocent and lock up criminals – I was just doing my job."

Red-faced fellas hide net searches

A QUARTER of men admit they'd be embarrassed if their wife or boss checked their internet history.

Research showed that millions of fellas search for things which would leave them red-faced if caught, while others buy items they wouldn't want others to know about.

The study also found five per cent of blokes own a second mobile phone – to keep things from their other half.

And three quarters of men regularly delete text messages in case their wife or girlfriend went 'snooping'.

A spokesman for net and mobile security firm BullGuard said: "We would hope that in most cases this is being done for moral reasons – to help avoid phishing scams and not because people are being unfaithful or up to no good."

Son jailed over mum's toyboy lover knife killing

AN over protective son stabbed his mother's toyboy lover to death because he feared he'd replace him as the 'man of the house'.

Ben Edgar, 20, knifed 28-year old Mark Wood just weeks after telling a family friend: "I swear to God, if he goes near my mum and I'm here, I will kill him - I will do the time for him."

He then dialled 999 telling an operator: "You best shut the f up and get here or I'm gonna murder you all."

Mr Wood was stabbed in the neck with a large kitchen knife and died later in hospital.

Edgar was said to have been raging after his mother Samantha Bird, 43, claimed that Mr Wood had beaten her up during an argument at their family home in Bolton, Lancs.

He also resented the fact Mr Wood lived at the house and believed that he, as Mrs Bird's son, 'should be the only man in the house'.

He had claimed he'd acted in self-defence, saying Mr Wood was wielding a chair.

Edgar was convicted of murder at Manchester Crown Court and jailed for life. He must serve a minimum of 12 years.

The reality show pin-up said: "I'm considering getting another boob job."

And so it is we will all have to come to terms with never again seeing the delectable Miss Jolie peel off her clothes for our viewing pleasure.

And while the world may be weeping now it is time to stay strong and be thankful for the body of work she left behind.

RED-blooded film fans are weeping at news that sexy Angelina Jolie is set to quit films for good.

The stunning brunette - who often tops the World's Sexiest polls with her BJ lips and sexy body - has always been happy to show off her Golden Globes.

Since her first flick Looking To Get Out two decades ago, Angelina has flashed the flesh in loads of cinema smashes - including Mojave Moon and Cyborg.

Busty

But the busty 37-year-old is covering up for good and has decided to turn her back on Hollywood in favour of spending more time with her kids.

The A-list star, who has six children with hunk Brad Pitt, 48, also wants to spend more time doing charity work instead of being paid millions as an actress.

Angelina - who shot to fame playing gun toting Lara Croft in the Tomb Raider franchise - said: "I think I'm going to have to give up acting as the kids hit the teenage years. Because there is going to be too much to manage."

"I've enjoyed being an actress and I'm grateful for the job. I've had great experiences and I've been able to tell stories that matter."

"I wake up in the morning as a mum and I turn on the news like everybody else and see what's happening in the world."

"I want to be a part of the world in a positive way."

Miss Marple butler role for Reeves!

FUNNYMAN Vic Reeves is set to play a butler who gets bumped off in a new Miss Marple TV drama.

The comedy star, who is credited under his real name of Jim Moir, has been cast in Greenshaw's Folly, one of three new Marples being made by ITV.

Also in the drama – to be shown next year – is former Busted musician and I'm A Celeb... winner Matt Willis plus Gregory's Girl actor John Gordon Sinclair.

The episode will once again feature Julia McKenzie as the amateur sleuth created by Agatha Christie.

Moir, known for his madcap shows such as Shooting Stars and The Smell Of Reeves And Mortimer, has recently appeared in BBC comedy Hebburn.

The programme, being shot in Hertfordshire, is based on Christie's short stories Greenshaw's Folly and The Thumb Mark of St Peter.

I'M really into the sport of American Football, so it came as a bit of a shock when I read that some Yank grid-iron players may be using Viagra to enhance their performances.

Now that's left me with this crazy image of hunky men running around the field with a tell-tale BULGE in those tight-fitting trousers!

I can't wait for the next game on TV – and some of my female pals are suddenly showing an interest too!

I'M A CELEBRITY ...GET ME SOME PORN!

Jungle Queen Charlie admits adult film fun

By WILL BATCHELOR news@sundaysport.co.uk

JUNGLE queen Charlie Brooks has revealed she gets turned on by watching sizzling PORN movies during sex.

But the 31-year-old actress, famous for playing Janine Butcher on EastEnders, insists the smut is turned OFF as soon as she is!

The mum-of-one made the saucy confession on the grand finale of ITV1 show I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out Of Here.

After a mammoth feast with fellow finalist Ashley Roberts – their first proper meal in weeks – Brooks complained that the sight of the remaining food was too much to bear.

"I mean, I can't even look at it now," she groaned.

"It is like a porno still playing after sex, isn't it? Get it off, get it away!"

Gorgeous pop star Ashley appeared to agree with Charlie. "Yeah, turn it off!" said the Pussycat Doll.

Charlie was voted Queen of the Jungle after viewers watched her bravely chew turkey testicles during Saturday night's show.

She has won several awards for her role as Janine, including "Best Bitch", "Bad Girl" and "Soap Villain" of the year.

"I'm thrilled that viewers think I'm so good at being bad!" she said.

LIGHTS OUT!

A SPECTACULAR £10,000 frosted metal Christmas tree had to be dismantled an hour after it was put up over fears anyone tampering with it could be killed by a 240 volt electric shock in Stanley, County Durham.

Cops need help to frame door thief

A CHEEKY thief who walked into a house and unhinged five doors before loading them into a van and driving away is being hunted by police.

The brass-necked crook told the homeowner the doors were due to be refurbished before unscrewing them.

He carried each door outside and loaded them into a silver van telling the bemused tennant they would be brought back in a couple of days.

When the doors were not returned, the owner contacted the housing association landlords who said they had not sent anyone around.

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said the man struck at the house in Camp Road, Upton Nervet, Berks.

PC Michael Watts said: "I would like to hear from anyone who had a knock on their door from people claiming to work for a housing association, or if anyone saw a suspicious silver van in the area."

Kyle sisters stole outfits for TV show

TWO shoplifting sisters wanted "new gear" so they looked smart on the Jeremy Kyle Show, according to a policeman.

The officer, who writes an anonymous blog called Constable Chaos, was called to a sports store after the twins were nicked with two bags full of clothes.

The cop calls the town he patrols Bigtown, and said the two women were caught red-handed as they tried to leave a store with hundreds of pounds worth of clobber.

He said: "The store manager produced a couple of 'Bags For Life' which were literally stuffed to the hilt with the latest branded tracksuits – all XXXL."

As he and a colleague quizzed them about the theft they said they "needed the clothes" because they were due to go on Jeremy Kyle's ITV1 morning show.

He added: "I had to remind them they were under caution and told them we'd go through it back at the station."

"In interview they said the whole purpose of their 'shopping trip' was to obtain some shiny bright new sports kit for their upcoming appearance on the Jeremy Kyle show."

'Welcome home' party killer caged

A 'LOVABLE toerag' was murdered at his own 'welcome home' party just a day after being released from prison.

Simon Warton, 27, was stabbed to death outside a house party by Sean Bailey, 29, who flew into a rage – grabbing four knives from the kitchen after seeing Simon comforting his girlfriend.

Two of Mr Warton's pals tried to stop Bailey as he stabbed Simon in the street in Wecock, Portsmouth, before he fled the scene on April 12.

Murdered Simon's mum Dawn Warton, of Waterlooville, Hants, described her son as a 'lovable toerag'.

Bailey, of Waterlooville, Hants, was found guilty of murder and must serve a minimum of 19 years after being sentenced to life in prison at Winchester Crown Court.

NOW MY TAG'S COME OFF, I CAN WEAR STOCKINGS AGAIN!

Jailbird model Jenny is finally a free woman

A GLAMOUR model recently freed from prison is celebrating the removal of her police tag...because it means she can wear sexy STOCKINGS again!

Busty 32DD Jenny Laird was sent down in March last year after admitting conspiracy to supply cocaine and cannabis.

Stafford Crown Court handed pretty Jenny, from Stonnall, West Midlands, a whopping sentence of three years and four months.

When Jenny was cut loose in July this year after serving 16 months she was ordered to wear a tracking tag which banned her from leaving the house between 7am and 7pm.

Now Jenny, 23, is finally able to ditch the unwanted ankle bracelet – marking the occasion with a champagne party in Birmingham.

But Jenny's even MORE excited about being able to slip her slinky pins into silky leg-warmers for energetic bedroom sessions!

She said: "The tag stopped me from wearing stockings and suspenders – and now I'm going to be wearing them permanently to make up for lost time, especially for sex!"

My job was to protect he ended up saving my life!

Bodyguard to the stars Giovanni Zequireya on Hollywood legends, guns and Gazza

By JON LIVESEY

jonl@sundaysport.co.uk

SO, YOU ARE GEORGE CLOONEY'S BODYGUARD. THAT MUST BE SOME JOB...

A lot of people have asked me to work for them, but now I just work for George.

I was lucky to find a guy like George because he's a really nice, honest person.

He's one of the best guys to work for because he makes you rich – but I'm not talking about money.

This is the sort of job that makes you rich in terms of value and the kind of experience that you have.

HE ENDED UP LOOKING AFTER YOU WHEN YOU HAD AN ACCIDENT. WHAT HAPPENED?

I was hit by a car when I was riding a motorcycle. I needed George's help because we were in the middle of nowhere.

With the experience he had from the TV show ER, he did a great job.

He told me that he didn't want me to move. I didn't understand, but he wanted to look after my legs, so he put a string around my legs to stop the bleeding.

There was a lot of blood – so much blood – because there was a big vein involved. So really, while I was there to protect him, George saved my life. He was terrific and I have to thank him for that.

YOU USED TO LOOK AFTER GAZZA. WHAT WAS THAT LIKE?

He was totally different to the other people I'd looked after.

He was a soccer player – a very famous soccer player – and everybody loved him, even Roma fans, who fight with Lazio fans.

Paul just wanted to do normal things but when you're so famous, it's not that easy to do normal things. That was why there was trouble. That's why I had to fight with the paparazzi.

They knew Paul had a temper, so they would try to provoke him, to make him do stupid things.

I've worked with so many people, but with Paul it was a beautiful time in my life.

WHEN you're as famous as George Clooney you need more than a bulletproof vest to feel safe.

And that's where rock-hard bodyguard Giovanni Zequireya comes in.

Over the past 33 years, the big Italian has made himself a human shield for some of the world's biggest movie stars, as well as megastar musicians including Madonna and Michael Jackson.

Since nailing his first job, looking after Warren Beatty on the set of Reds in 1979, he's travelled the world, watching over people like Tom Cruise, Robert De Niro and Sylvester Stallone.

In the 90s, he spent several years as head of security at Lazio Football Club, where he had the arduous task of keeping tabs on Sunday Sport columnist Paul 'Gazza' Gascoigne.

Now 58, Gio – sometimes called Johnny – works solely for Ocean's Eleven and ER star Clooney, 51, who spends several months a year at his luxury villa on the banks of Lake Como in Italy.

In his first ever interview with an English newspaper, he's opened up EXCLUSIVELY to Midweek Sport about the time Clooney saved his life, and being a victim of Gazza's pranks.

Gio's also revealed exactly what you need to be a brilliant bodyguard, why he doesn't need to use his gun and he's lifted the lid on the time his drinks were spiked by a gang of Geordies.

DID HE PLAY ANY OF HIS FAMOUS PRANKS ON YOU?

Yes, he did a few practical jokes on me.

Once, we were at the villa and he called me out to the swimming pool. When I got there, he said, "Look at that," and there was a giant bullfrog wrapped in Christmas lights.

Let's just say I saw a lot of crazy things.

WHAT KIND OF CRAZY THINGS?

Well, Jimmy Five Bellies was Paul's best friend, but at the same time he was his toy.

Once, Paul kicked a ball on a trailer outside the stadium where he had been training. He said he couldn't get it because he was injured and sent Jimmy on the trailer to get it for him.

But Paul jumped in the car and started driving. Jimmy was on the back of the fing trailer screaming for him to stop the car, but Paul carried on driving all around Rome.

It was unbelievable, but with Paul, everything was about happiness, in a nice and simple way. And always with the same passion – he puts passion into everything he does.

IT MUST HAVE BEEN HARD KEEPING HIM AND JIMMY OUT OF TROUBLE...

Yes. Another time, Paul started setting off fireworks inside his own villa, which was really close to a police academy.

It was 9pm and these fireworks were going off, "Bang, bang!" and in a few minutes the place was surrounded by police.

I opened up the gate and there must have been at least 24 cops, all with guns in their hands, saying, "Stop! Everybody put your hands up!"

They thought we were shooting each other! It was so funny because Paul said, "F the police! They are just little fireworks."

Eventually, the police came inside and everybody got drunk.

DID YOU HAVE PROBLEMS UNDERSTANDING THE GEORDIE ACCENT?

Ah yes, the Geordie boys. In the beginning, it was very tough, but then I started to understand.

My worst experience was at New Year. They gave me a pint of beer with five shots of vodka in it.

I'm not a drinker, so you can imagine that after a few drops I was drunk like crazy.

Thank God that Paul's father, John, said, "Gio, stop drinking it." In Newcastle, they like drinking.

YOU'RE A PRETTY BIG GUY. DO YOU NEED TO BE BIG TO BE A BODYGUARD?

CRAZY:
Gazza
and Five Bellies

No. There is no reason at all to be big. The most important muscle that you need in this job is your brain.

In this work, the only way to be a winner is to understand that something is wrong two seconds before it happens.

If you lose the moment, you're second. And if you're second, it's done.

If someone comes to shoot you, you'll always be second – even if you have a gun with you – so the only way you can win is if you understand something is wrong before it happens.

DO YOU HAVE TO CARRY A GUN?

I have had a gun for years, but I don't believe in it any more. You don't need a gun in this work.

In many situations, it can create more problems.

WHAT MAKES YOU SO GOOD AT YOUR JOB?

I started to study and that's one of the reasons why I understand a lot more.

A lot of the people who do this job come from the military or police – we're talking about people who've been on the frontline or been to war, so their heads are full of different stuff.

They have ideas about how to attack and how to defend, but in different kinds of situations.

In this job, you don't have to be a soldier – you have to be a normal person, especially when you are dealing with a crowd and in these situations, you can't show any nerves at all.

HOW DO YOU DEAL WITH A CROWD?

A crowd is one of the worst things because it makes people nervous and can make you nervous. You have to look at people because that's the only way you can understand what's going on.

Once, I had a situation with Paul in a crowd – you couldn't move – and in a situation like that

Fan owns up to biting girl at Minaj gig

A SUPERMARKET worker was so pumped up to get in the front row for a Nicki Minaj concert that she BIT a child who tried to push past her.

Jacqueline Henderson, 32, brawled on the floor with the schoolgirl after fearing she would lose her place in front of the stage for the hip-hop superstar.

Henderson was heard shouting "I'm 32 and nobody's pushing me" as fans jostled to get a good view of Minaj on stage at T in the Park.

She sat shame-faced in the dock at Perth Sheriff Court yesterday after she admitted attacking a 15-year-old girl with a serious heart condition.

Henderson, of Fraser Drive, Lochgelly, Fife, admitted attacking and injuring the girl by biting her right arm during T in the Park at Balado on July 8.

Sheriff Fiona Tait told Henderson: "You are 32 and appear as a first offender, but nevertheless, the offence is not to your credit."

Henderson was ordered to carry out 100 hours unpaid work.

TIP

Thief postie's heroin habit

A POSTMAN stole money and gift cards from parcels and letters to fund his heroin habit.

Ryan Kestell, 24, admitted three charges of theft and attempted theft this summer.

Kestell, who worked as a postie for four years, stole £85 in cash and gift cards and tried to steal 32 postal packets of unknown value from the Royal Mail.

He was trapped by investigators who sent out test packages, and Kestell admitted opening the mail for around a month.

Kestell, of Bodmin, Cornwall, said he'd got into the wrong peer group, had a heroin habit and needed £30 a day to fund it.

His defence said he felt disgusted by his actions.

Bodmin magistrates adjourned sentencing until later this month.

you have to be smart. You have to say, "Hey, look, we're going to hurt each other. I want you to have a good time. I want you to enjoy Paul or Madonna or whoever, so please give me space."

If you push someone, you might hurt them and you don't want to do that. If you try to be too strong and start pushing everybody, you lose the crowd. If people listen to you, then you win.

WHAT'S YOUR BEST TIP?

In this job, the security people are always closed because they think it's the best way to make things safe. They just close the door and don't talk to anybody. They only talk to each other.

When you work alone, you have to be open, but open in a smart way. For example, if I'm going to a hotel with a client, the first people I make friends with are the doormen, the people who clean the rooms, the most normal people around.

I say, "Hi, how are you doing? What are you up to?" and become friends with them from the start.

After that, they give me information. They say, "Hey Gio, there's a strange guy on the third floor, so just pay attention to him."

If I don't say, "Good morning" they don't give me information. That's the difference. Some people don't talk enough.

BUT WHAT DO YOU DO IF YOU DON'T LIKE YOUR CLIENT?

This was one of the first lessons I used to give when I was training people. I would tell everybody that when you're looking after rich people, sometimes they're angry in general, maybe because they're losing money or their wives are doing something terrible.

So if you're looking after a guy like that, you have to find a little angle that you like because you might have to die for him.

If you really don't like him and if you don't think you can be there at the moment when they need you, then you need to leave the guy and not work for him.

If you stay with him, you're going to do something wrong.

When you do this job, it's important that you put your heart into it because in the end, you've got to be in front of the guy.

SO WHAT'S THE BEST THING ABOUT BEING A BODYGUARD TO THE STARS?

People like George, Paul, Tom Cruise or whoever – doing normal things is tough for them.

In this job, you feel like a winner when you can make it so that your client can spend time, under no pressure, in public, at home or out shopping – that's when you've done a great job.

The famous people, I call them the rich poor because they have lots of money but they don't have any private life.

When you've worked for a guy and you know that you've helped him to have a nice time, so that he can be with his family, nice and safe – then you get the feeling that you've done a good job. That's the truth.

Not sexy? – You must be nuts, Jenn!

HOLLYWOOD star Jennifer Love Hewitt says she was as “sexy as a peanut” when she was younger.

The actress, 33, admits she wasn’t confident about her body and looks when she was 18.

She revealed: “Sex? I was about as sexy as a peanut. I had the sultriness of a clam.”

“I’ve always turned down parts with nudity. I didn’t like to look at myself naked, so I did not want the world to look at me naked either.”

“I don’t mind the rest. I do not mind having my boobs accentuated. I would much rather have attention on my boobs than my big butt!”

The Client List star Jennifer didn’t seem too hung-up about her body when she posed for horny pics on the cover of Maxim mag earlier this year.

She also revealed her love of vajazzling, confirming that she adorned her nether regions for the hot photoshoot.

She said: “I can walk around all day and think, ‘nobody has any idea that I have a sparkly secret in my pants right now.’”

Pop beauties kept these under cover for Queen

NOW here are some sights that would have livened up this week’s Royal Variety Performance...

Viewers watching ITV1’s Monday night show saw Girls Aloud, Kylie Minogue and Amanda Holden entertaining the Queen.

And afterwards Her Royal Highness got to meet all the performers, thank them for the evening and possibly ask if they had come a long way.

But what Her Majesty will not have known – we hope! – is that all of the beauties before her have been snapped with their NIPPLES out!

From Girls Aloud – who performed their new single Beautiful Cause You Love Me – there have been public nip-slips by sexy Cheryl Cole, Sarah Harding and Nicola Roberts.

R&B babe Alicia Keys, who also performed, has herself been snapped in a sheer see-through top while on stage singing.

And sexpot singer

Kylie Minogue and Britain’s Got Talent host Amanda Holden’s perky chapel hat pegs have also been caught for posterity.

One stage source said: “The Queen will often politely ask what people do for a living.”

“Imagine if the girls had referred to getting photographed with their tops off?”

“She would probably reply that her granddaughter-in-law has been in that situation lately, too!”

WHAT do vegetarian zombies eat? Graaaains!

Keys-tone cops’ panda is nicked

BUNGLING cops had a panda car stolen from a police station forecourt after dozy officers left the KEYS in the vehicle.

A brazen crook struck as the £30,000 motor was parked outside their station.

The gate into the private garage was broken, allowing the thief to simply stroll into the compound, start the engine, and drive out again.

Top bosses at Dublin’s Store Street Garda feared the car was snatched by dissident republicans, but were relieved to recover it undamaged in Kilkenny.

Police confirmed a 28-year-old man had been arrested in connection with the incident.

And a source added: “It was the nightmare scenario.”

CCTV pics in hunt for train perv

THIS is the man cops want to question after a WILLY-WAGGLER exposed himself to a woman on a train.

British Transport detectives are appealing for the public's help to identify the man after releasing CCTV footage.

Det Ch Insp John Pyke said: "A male passenger, who was in the company of three other men on board a train from Crewe, was seen to wander along a carriage speaking to female passengers."

"When the train was travelling through the Nuneaton area, the man exposed himself to a female passenger."

"She complained to the man about his behaviour and he then became aggressive."

"Although unhurt she was understandably distressed."

The man got off the train when it arrived at Northampton station.

DCI Pyke added: "I would appeal to anyone who knows this man's identity, or his current whereabouts, to contact us straight away."

Booze breath tablet ad ban

AN advert for a tablet that claimed to "reduce alcohol breath" has been banned for encouraging people to drink and drive.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents complained to watchdogs that the ad incited people to break the law, as they believed it encouraged drink-driving.

The Advertising Standards Authority found the ad for Birmingham-based Alcopal to be in breach of rules.

The watchdog told Alcopal that the ad must no longer appear, and to ensure their future ads were prepared with a "sense of responsibility to consumers and society".

An ASA spokesman said: "We also told them to ensure their future marketing communications did not encourage consumers to drink and drive."

Bare bums tights ads given slap

TRENDY clothes label American Apparel has been rapped for using scantily clad female models in "gratuitous sexual imagery" on its website.

Watchdogs launched a probe following complaints about racy adverts – including some female nudity – on the firm's website.

The Advertising Standards Authority found three images were in breach of rules.

Another was of a woman wearing white tights but nothing else, curled up on a sofa with a boob on show.

The third was of two women wearing black, cut-out tights with their bottoms exposed.

The firm claimed it was standard practice to market hosiery or lingerie in the way done on their website.

But the ASA, who banned the ads, found the poses of the women in some photos were "sexually suggestive and gratuitous in an ad for hosiery" and "inappropriate" in a hosiery ad.

SAVAGE-THE SOFTY!

By KELLY JENKINS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

FOOTY hardman Robbie Savage is a big softy really – as he proved when he let a woman get away with PRANGING his precious Aston Martin.

The floppy-haired former Wales international ended up forking out £1,000 to fix the car – after the crash at a McDonald's drive-through.

Former midfielder Robbie, now a soccer pundit on BBC's Match of the Day and Radio 5 Live, called into the fast-food restaurant on his way home to cure an attack of the munchies.

But a ditzzy female driver reversed into his car while trying to order her chicken suggests. The confused woman was trying to line her vehicle up to the intercom – but reversed straight into Robbie's £200,000 luxury car, wrecking the front bumper.

£1,000 bill after car crash

Robbie, 38, says the Big Mac he scoffed afterwards was the most expensive snack he's ever had – but admits he just couldn't bring himself to report the "horrified" driver.

"The woman in front of me at the drive-through overshot the intercom where you place your order," recalled Robbie.

"She reversed a few feet so she was properly lined up – and my Aston Martin's front bumper bore the brunt. She was so horrified when she discovered who's car she had pranged, and I felt so sorry for her, I told her to forget it."

Robbie joked: "But I was a bit shocked myself when the girl at the counter asked if I'd like fries with my burger."

"I thought she was asking if I wanted to cry with it!"

@linsey_dawn

I AM celebrating this week because I have reached an amazing 40,000 followers on Twitter!

Hopefully I am keeping all my followers entertained with my saucy tweets and naughty snaps I put on there.

Here is a picture from my Twitter to show anyone who isn't following me what they are missing out on!

If you want to join in the fun just go to @linsey_dawn and follow me!

With Linsey Dawn McKenzie

I WAS shocked when I read about Denise Welch wanting to have a baby at the age of 54.

Apparently she has visited a fertility clinic and wants to have a kid with her new boyfriend, who is a lot younger than her.

I can see why he would want them to have a baby together but I think it's unfair of him to put that on her.

Her eldest son is an adult now so if I was her I would wait for grandkids to come along.

Maybe she has forgotten how hard it is having small kids. It is the best thing in the world but it is also exhausting!

I'D LOVE TO RUMBLE WITH JUNGLE GIRLS!

I AM really pleased that Charlie Brooks won I'm A Celebrity - I thought she came across really well.

She seems like a really nice, normal girl and she didn't cause any fuss, which is why she won - people like their celebrities to be down to earth and normal.

That's why Ashley Roberts came second - she was absolutely lovely. Mind you it doesn't do any harm they're both pretty fit too!

I wouldn't have minded being in the jungle with the pair of them - and Helen Flanagan too!

Bounced

Helen (left) was major annoying but she has got the most amazing breasts!

People keep saying they were fake but the way those babies bounced around all over the place there's no way they were fake.

Mind you I wouldn't mind getting my hands on them - just to make sure!

Some people on Twitter were also having a go at Charlie saying she went on about her daughter all the time just to get the sympathy vote.

Nonsense. Obviously she really missed her while she was away from her and it's natural to talk about her - it'd be weird if she didn't!

The other point in her favour is she lives really near me! A few weeks ago just before she went on the show I saw her and her boyfriend Ben Hollington in a local bar.

They looked really loved up and they were obviously spending a romantic evening together before she had to leave.

Lots of people seemed to want David Haye to win but I thought he was arrogant.

And I didn't like Eric Bristow either, I thought he was arrogant as well and rude with it - although he did have bigger boobs than Helen!

Birthday party boat was swell

ON Saturday night I went to a 30th birthday party on a boat on the Thames and it was brilliant - I was absolutely hammered. There were 100 people on the boat and we got through 900 bottles of beer which is pretty outrageous!

I love London and it was so nice to see all the landmarks up close from the boat - there was something really magical about it.

Whenever I am in London I am always in such a rush and it was nice to just relax and really look at all the amazing places.

But I was shocked at how choppy the river was - the water was black and swirling and it looked really sinister.

I had a low cut top on and a push up bra and it was swaying all over the place and I was convinced by boobs were going to fall out!

I reckon if anyone had fallen overboard they wouldn't have stood a chance in that water.

Warm Xmas welcome home

NOW we are in December and I am properly in the festive spirit - I have got two Christmas trees already, one outdoors and one indoors.

I haven't had time to decorate the indoor one yet though, so I'm not totally done yet, but my outdoor one has lights on it.

We moved into a new house earlier this year and a lot of my decorations look too small now so I need to get more stuff. I am excited about going shopping for more baubles.

Because I am away a lot staying in hotels it is so nice to drive home pull up in my driveway and see my lights twinkling and my house looking like a lovely warm grotto to welcome me.

ON Sunday night at Redlight Central I met a brand new model who is the most stunning girl I have ever seen.

She has dark hair and dark skin and she is just gorgeous. I have never seen such a perfect looking girl.

Her name is Charlotte and she has an amazing body - she is slim with the most perfect pair of natural boobs with lovely dark nipples.

Just writing about her is making me horny!

She is only 20-year-old and has never done any modelling before but I really think she could be the next big thing.

We got chatting and she is from Bedfordshire and is a really nice girl

- and I told her that I fancy her!

I was sitting opposite her all night while she was doing live webcam stuff and it was driving me mad - I couldn't stop staring at her.

The sight of her spreading her legs made me so horny I put on the best show of my life!

I am predicting big things for her - I think she could be a massive star.

Broken back burglar attack man is jailed

A MAN who brutally attacked a burglar, leaving him with a broken back, has been jailed.

Arthur Wilkinson, 52, and an accomplice subjected Stephen Pugh to a savage beating when he and two other men were found trying to steal quad bikes from Wilkinson's compound in Horden, Co. Durham, in January.

Wilkinson then drove Mr Pugh, 34, to the University Hospital of North Durham with serious injuries, saying he'd found him like that.

Mr Pugh suffered a broken back bone, a double fracture to his leg, a smashed nose, a fractured left arm and bruising all over.

Teesside Crown Court heard Mr Pugh was hit with a wooden bat as well as being kicked and punched.

Wilkinson's barrister told the court he had been suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder at the time and one of the men had pushed him to the ground.

Wilkinson, of Peterlee, denied causing grievous bodily harm with intent, but admitted it after a trial began in September.

Jailing Wilkinson for four years, Judge George Moorhouse recognised that another unnamed man had been responsible for using the weapon but added: "It was a joint enterprise. You must accept responsibility for your part in it."

A VICAR'S daughter who was determined to clear her student debts within 12 months of graduating has carved out a lucrative career as an internet sex model.

And the 22-year-old Birmingham babe has not only paid off her debts – she's now saving up for a deposit on a house!

Lauren Marsden, 22, found herself £15,000 in the red after three years studying for a Biology degree at the University of West Lancashire.

Her prospects of landing a well-paid job looked bleak, meaning she'd be paying back her debts for nearly 20 years.

So Lauren decided to clear all her debts before going ahead with her chosen career.

uni. I haven't got rich parents – my dad's a vicar and my mum doesn't work – so they couldn't pay for me.

"I didn't really think about it at the time – I just got on with it. But when I graduated I suddenly realised just how much I owed.

"I want to get into research and specialise in gene therapy but that will be a long hard slog with not a lot of money.

Perfect

"So I decided to clear my debts completely before I take up my proper career."

After reading about the money models earned on webcams, she decided to give it a try.

She said: "It seemed the perfect solution. People had always said I could have been a model and I have always been a bit of an exhibitionist.

"You should have seen the clothes I used to wear to go clubbing! All I had to do was sit in front of my laptop in sexy outfits, strip off and play with myself."

The sexy brunette now has about 200 regular customers who pay up to £150 a session.

She said: "I set myself up on a website and the work slowly started to roll in."

"One guy loves me to dress as a French maid – he bought me a sexy outfit that I wear for him. He loves me bending over and showing off my bum."

"Another guy likes me to be a strict nurse who tells her naughty patient off – it's really interesting work."

Now, Lauren has set her sights on buying her first home. But her job has come at a price – she's fallen out with her religious father.

She said: "He was furious but I'm my own person and refused to give up."

TIP

It's animal tragic for injured Brits

POISONOUS spider bites, crocodile attacks and being struck by lightning are some of the bizarre ways Brits get injured.

Hospital A&E data has revealed that scorpions, spiders, crocodiles and even JELLYFISH land folk in hospital in the UK.

Last year 18 people were treated after being bitten by poisonous spiders, four were nipped by alligators or crocs and 37 were stung by jellyfish.

Another three people were bitten by scorpions and 65 by venomous snakes or lizards.

And oddly, 10 people needed treatment after accidentally suffocating themselves in bed and 27 were hit by lightning.

One everyday activity accounts for a whopping 13,000 accidents – sitting on a CHAIR!

Last year, someone fell off their chair every 40 minutes and was injured.

Jedward in supermodel lust shock!

SINGLE pop twins Jedward reckon that sexy Cara Delevigne fancies them.

The X Factor rejects (above) think romance with the supermodel may be on the cards after meeting her at top designer Roberto Cavalli's fashion show.

John, 21, said: "We met Cara at Roberto's show at Milan Fashion Week and he played cupid for us."

"She's so beautiful, it was love at first sight."

Brother Edward added: "She told us she really fancied us – even more than any of One Direction – so Harry Styles, take that!"

Cara, 20, (right) who is the face of posh Brit brand Burberry, was recently crowned model of the year 2012 at the British Fashion Awards.

She could literally have any man she wanted – so insiders say it looks unlikely she would be after the Irish lads.

But it looks like Cara may be having trouble finding a fella after recently Tweeting: "Where have all the good men gone?"

GRAB A GRANNY!

Teen hunk Conor: I fancy bonking an oldie

POP star Conor Maynard says he would love to bag himself a cougar – and reckons he'd even bonk a pensioner!

The 20-year-old Brighton warbler (left), who has notched up three top 10 hits already this year, thinks getting an older lady is the way forward.

He said: "I've heard cougars are the best, so you never know."

"How old is too old? Erm, like 74. I think that would have to be my cut off!"

When he was a guest on

ITV2 show Celebrity Juice with Katie Price, aka Jordan, the 34-year-old model was flirting with him.

But Conor admitted: "I don't know if I'd go on a date with her – I think she might tear me apart."

"I'd be quite scared!"

OLLY: I'VE GOT THE SEX FACTOR!

POP SHOCK 1

Warbler says: I'm sh*t-hot in bed

CHART-TOPPING singer Olly Murs reckons he's Top of the Bonks!

The randy X Factor star is currently single and is desperate to find a girl so he can show off his sexual prowess.

Essex cheeky chappie Olly says he would love to read a 'kiss and tell' on him – but only if the lady rated his performance between the sheets.

In an interview with Reveal magazine, Olly said: "Sex is massively important in a relationship."

Devastated

"I'd give myself a seven or eight out of 10 in the sack."

"I'm not saying I know it all in the bedroom, but I'm not a bad shag!"

And Olly went on to add: "A kiss and tell wouldn't bother me – as long as it's a nice one about me it's alright!"

"But if she gives me a four or five, I'll be devastated."

The 28-year-old has the current No.1 single with Troublemaker and his new CD Right Place Right Time has shot straight to the top of the album charts – the fastest selling male solo album of the year.

But despite success, Olly reckons he's finding it hard to bag a bird.

He says he can only find girls who want one-night stands – which most fellas would be happy with – when what he's really looking for is a proper girlfriend.

Fed-up Olly moaned: "I'm having a bit of a nightmare. Name me a single girl in the industry who's young, hot and not taken."

"There ain't any. I'm scraping the barrel."

Rabbit lobbing thug banged up

A YOUTH has been sentenced to four months' detention for throwing a homeless man's rabbit into a river.

The animal's owner, John Byrne, had been begging on when his pet Barney was snatched from his arms.

The 37-year-old risked his life by jumping in after his beloved pet and giving him the kiss of life before both were rescued by firefighters.

Gary Kearney, 20, pleaded guilty at Dublin District Court to animal cruelty and torture.

Outside the court, Mr Byrne said he was in shock when he saw his pet swimming around in circles, looking up at him.

He said: "I had to jump in to get him. Barney died in my arms."

Anti-Scot racist rant dad jailed

A FURIOUS husband, who found out his wife had slept with a black man went berserk and hurled racist abuse at a Scottish policeman.

Raymond Farthing, 37, shouted at Scottish-born Inspector Steve Burnside: "Why have you come to my country, you fing immigrant, you fing Scottish c".

Cops went to his home after receiving a 999 call and found him in his back garden holding a small child and saying, 'I'm taking the kid'.

An officer sprayed CS gas at Farthing before cops managed to take the child off him.

After threatening to knock out one of the officers, Farthing then fled on a bike.

And he then pulled down his shorts and flashed his bottom at police when they later caught up with him.

Insp Burnside took out his baton and Farthing reacted by swearing at him and saying, 'come on then'.

He then repeatedly abused the inspector for being Scottish – using language which the officer found insulting.

Farthing was finally overpowered and put in leg restraints, before he kicked one officer – bruising his ribs.

The incident flared up as a result of his partner telling him that evening that she had been 'sleeping with a black man'.

Farthing, from Hardwicke, near Gloucester, pleaded guilty at the city's Crown Court to affray on September 16 and was jailed for 30 weeks.

4-in-5 women watch pornos

A STAGGERING EIGHTY per cent of girls admit watching hardcore sex action, a survey reveals.

And half of lasses say they've ogled a blue film without their partners.

Researchers at the IFOP polling institute quizzed 579 women for their probe, noting that 20 years ago, less than a quarter of women had seen porn.

Spokesman Francois Kraus said: "In the space of a few years it's become an accepted thing for women to watch porn."

The poll showed most women watched porn to "spice up" their sex life with a partner.

But the spokesman added: "Women are now consuming porn by themselves."

JOR A LUCKY

After dumping Katie Price, Argie has been dating the cream of UK

LUCKY Leandro Penna hasn't looked back since splitting from model Katie Price.

By ISOBEL DICKINSON

izzy@sundaysport.co.uk

Because the horny Argentinian model has already been linked with some of the UK's hottest TOPLESS showbiz pin-ups!

Jammy Leandro, 27, parted ways with 34-year-old Katie – aka Jordan – last month, saying he'd grown tired of her "crazy" ways.

But the energetic Lothario clearly isn't content with bonking the UK's most outrageous glamour girl, because he's since shackled up with two of Katie's industry pals!

Leandro has been spotted enjoying dates with The Only Way Is Essex stars Lauren Pope, 29, and Maria Fowler, 26.

And Leandro says it's his prowess in the sack that makes him a smash-hit with the ladies!

He boasted: "I like to do lots of things to women so they have a really good orgasm and have fun in the bedroom."

One showbiz insider said: "Leandro is enjoying the single life – and who can

SEX RATED:
Leandro boasts he's red-hot in the sack

MARIA FOWLER

CHEEKY Leandro put blonde model Lauren Pope's surgically-altered nose out of joint when he was spotted romancing her TOWIE co-star Maria Fowler, 26, in east London... just days after they'd enjoyed a date.

And Leandro's fling with brunette Maria, who also sports a huge pair of 32F breasts, quickly riled Leandro's ex Katie Price, too. In a furious war of words on internet site Twitter, Katie spat: "@MariaFowler did your set up photos go well with leo?"

"Didn't think your scoop that low no problem just what I've been told!"

But former pal Maria didn't take that lying down and hit back: "If you still spoke to me you would be more than updated with the goings on in my life Katie xx!"

BOY!

model Leandro glamour babes blame him? Katie must be fuming that he's moved on so quickly, especially with girls as hot as Lauren and Maria."

Bizarrely, Leandro has left the door open to a reunion with snubbed Katie.

He revealed: "She was one of the women I've loved most in my life and people make mistakes."

"If somebody says sorry, why not give them another chance?"

It's something to look out for, although Katie might not be so happy about a repeat bunk-up after seeing our snaps of his new lady friends!

JORDAN

BRAVE Leandro raised eyebrows when he began dating outspoken Katie back in February 2011, after meeting at Elton John's Oscars party in Los Angeles.

But despite 32DD Katie's long list of past conquests, he reckons he was quick to tame her man-eating ways.

Last week he said of the former I'm A Celebrity...Get Me Out of Here! star: "The first time ever we had sex, she told me it was the best sex she ever had."

And that's coming from a girl who has seen "everything" in the bedroom.

Katie, who split from ex-hubby Alex Reid in January 2011, recently admitted: "I've got my own sex dungeon. I've seen videos and pictures yeah - I've seen more than you can ever imagine."

LAUREN POPE

BLONDE Lauren, 29, was an established glamour stunna before finding fame on ITV2's TOWIE back in 2010.

And Lauren's 32F boobs were quick to catch the eye of Leandro, too!

They were spotted chatting to each other on holiday in Marbella earlier this year (pic, left) - despite the fact Katie was with them at the time.

And last month the lovebirds were seen enjoying a romantic dinner at swanky 'Tuscany' restaurant in Loughton, Essex, before looking loved up at posh Luxe nightclub.

So what attracted Leandro to busty Lauren, originally from Torquay, Devon?

Well, perhaps the fact she once boasted about her "very active" sex life with ex-boyfriend Kirk Norcross might have helped!

Big heels give women a high, says sex survey

BLACK stilettos, red lipstick and a push-up bra are among the top 20 things which make a woman feel sexy, new research has revealed.

Other pick-me-ups are a pair of stockings, a splash of perfume and knee-high boots.

The top three boosts were having silky smooth legs, putting on new underwear and receiving a compliment.

Also on the list was painted finger nails, putting up hair and sipping a glass of wine, according to the study by online underwear retailer Boux Avenue. Lisa Bond, of the undies firm, said: "High heels and red lipstick predictably have an effect on how we look, feel, and act, but people tend to underestimate the power that new underwear can have on a woman, despite the fact very few people will actually see it."

The study also found one in 10 women think wearing diamonds makes them feel sexy, while 80 per cent said high heels made them feel instantly appealing and slimmer.

A visible cleavage is thought to be sexy by 40 per cent of the 2000 women polled. A third said they regularly don stockings, suspenders and high heels.

TOP 10 SEXY BOOSTERS

1. Smooth legs
2. Receiving a compliment
3. New underwear
4. Wearing a push-up bra
5. Black stilettos
6. Wearing perfume
7. Wearing stockings and suspenders
8. Applying red lipstick
9. Painted fingernails
10. Glass of wine

MIDWEEK

A BUDDHIST goes into a pizza parlour and says, "Make me one with everything."

Christmas in is 'going out'

MORE than two-thirds of adults plan to party at home rather than head out for a festive tippie this Christmas, according to new research.

Six out of 10 will have less than four drinks at a house party, nearly half would prefer a cosy night in with close friends, while nearly a fifth will host dinner parties.

The top five places throwing house parties this Christmas are Brighton, Aberystwyth, Swansea, Southampton and Chelmsford, says the poll of 2,000 adults for Funkin cocktail mixers.

Most said they plan to party at home to save spending money.

A spokesman for Funkin said: "Although everyone still loves a good night out we are seeing them mix it up more by creating a similar experience in their own living room."

THE FEAR BABE TOPLESS!

Star of Channel 4 crime drama gets 'em out

NO FEAR:
Anastasia has never
to show off her assets

SEXY MILF Anastasia Hille plays a gangster's moll in her latest role – but the only crime she's committing is keeping her kit ON.

Because the 47-year-old is happy to bare her boobs for her art – as well as her downstairs!

The actress plays Jo Beckett in Channel 4's new crime drama The Fear.

She is the estranged wife of a Brighton gangster who is battling competition from Eastern European mafia and Alzheimer's. But the Brighton crime scene is a world away from Anastasia's former saucy roles.

The blonde bombshell got her kit off playing a feminist housewife in 90s TV show Big Women.

In one scene she dances COMPLETELY naked, wearing nothing but a headscarf and showing off her perky boobs and even her 70s style bush.

And the sexy actress stripped down for another sassy roll when she played Karla in Brit indie flick Five Seconds to Spare.

She is seen hitching up her skirt as she straddles a guy on a bed, showing off her sexy stocking tops.

And later she gets totally naked, bending over the bed and flashing her boobs.

On her latest role as Jo Beckett, the actress said: "She's a real tough cookie – she's no pushover."

The Fear – which also stars Richard E Grant, Paul Nicholls and Peter Mullan – started on Monday and finishes tomorrow.

The Yanks think that is bad? Over here, we have journalists who write stories about Hugh Grant's latest girlfriend. Now THAT is pure evil.

I'm not sure because she only mentions it four or five times per episode.

I would not fancy a long voyage with her but she could give me a tug.

Batchelor ON THE B X

I SPENT Saturday night watching two young blonde women gagging on a penis – and I did not even have to wait for the missus to go to bed first.

ITV1's I'm A Celebrity final came down to Ashley Roberts versus Charlie Brooks – Pussycat Doll versus EastEnders Moll.

The final bush tucker trial saw the girls feasting on such delights as camel penis, turkey testicles, raw fish eyes and congealed brain.

Both girls were excellent, although Charlie required a little more persuasion to tuck in. After years of scripts, you'd think she'd be used to getting her tongue around a load of bollocks.

For their efforts they won a slap-up feast of their choice – and plumped for Mexican grub. It was a shame they did not choose a doner kebab. Then all the leftover cock and brain would not have gone to waste.

It was Charlie who won the Queen of the Jungle title but amid the celebration, let's spare a thought for poor Brian Conley, who suffered a nervous breakdown in camp.

His people say the depressed comic is in a "much better place now". But then Ant and Dec said he had gone to do panto in Birmingham, so I do not know who to believe.

Still, it is not quite over yet. For diehard I'm A Celeb fans, there is the Coming Out show tonight. I wonder if Dec will be presenting it. innocent face

● The X Factor has a reputation for getting big name guests but this week they took it to a whole new level, with an exclusive performance by...the Baby Jesus!

You'd think He might be too busy at this time of year but, according to judge Nicole Scherzinger, the Christ King found time to possess the body of Jahmene during his first number.

"Baby Jesus came down," she babbled: "And he was in that song and we had a jubilation!"

Which, roughly translated, means: "Vote against my boy and you're going straight to Hell."

Personally, I do not believe any of the X Factor contestants are the Second Coming – but if I had to pick one it would be Christopher Maloney. That is why he is forever wringing his hands. You would, too, if they'd been nailed to a cross.

STEPPIN' Out With Katherine Jenkins, on ITV1, was tragic.

The Welsh warbler was like a desperate stage school brat given 10 minutes to impress a movie studio boss.

"Look at me!" she seemed to scream, "I can sing, I can dance, I can act (sort of), I can even do funny! Now when you gonna make me a star, mister?!"

To which the answer is: Never, because it is not the 1970s any more, love, and anyone who enjoys this sort of pap telly can only "step out" with the aid of a zimmer frame. Next!

THE behaviour of EastEnders wild child Lauren Branning is going from bad to worse.

As if to illustrate this point, she has taken to wearing a red and black striped jumper, a la Dennis the Menace.

Clearly what she needs is good slippers. And, after much thought, I have decided to volunteer my services for this important duty.

Nice to find hard men in Brighton

Oh God, don't look now but Channel 4 is doing a week of shows from Brighton.

Go on then, let me guess – Gok Wan gives fashion makeovers to lesbian hen parties ("Movember is so over, girlfriend. Ditch the moustache!")?

No? OK, the Embarrassing Bodies team is doing a special on anal tearing?

Still no? Well, it must be property then.

Grand Designs has found a rich (but not quite rich enough) idiot who wants to rebuild the pier from original materials, blindfolded?

No, all wrong. In fact – and you may need to sit down, here – it is a week of brilliant, exciting crime drama set in the seaside town.

The Fear is about ageing gangster, Richie Beckett, who is going senile. His illness causes him to drink heavily, shag lapdancers and launch vicious assaults on passing unicyclists.

However, it also has its down side. With a gang of Albanian mobsters trying to muscle in on his turf, Beckett needs to be razor sharp. A new razor, that is, not one from that lesbian hen party.

To make matters worse, the East European crooks have burnt down his hotel and targeted his two sons.

Cal, the idiot cokehead son, shagged one of their hookers and returned to find only her head and shoulders in his bed. He did not even know she had dandruff.

They kept the rest of her body, meaning they can fit him up for murder.

They also forced Matty, the clever son, to suck them off at knifepoint. That seems a bit off, considering there are plenty of chaps in Brighton who would do that sort of thing willingly.

Beckett is played to chilling perfection by Peter Mullan, who specialises in hardman roles.

Ex-Eastender Paul Nicholls is also good as the spoilt cokehead. I doubt he needed much research on that one.

The Albanian characters are very menacing, too, even if they are just cartoon foreign villains – which would be called "racist" if it was anywhere but Channel 4.

Still, let's not knock them for that. Let's just be grateful for a week of primetime output that does not involve Phil or Kirstie or Sarah fing Beeny.

Unless, of course, they turn up tonight to help Beckett refurbish his burnt out hotel. Don't bet against it.

AAH, such lovely news on Coronation Street – lovebirds Kirsty and Tyrone are getting married!

Ty's stag do should be interesting. On these occasions it is traditional for the groom to be chained up and humiliated – although that usually happens after he has left the house.

It won't be a big bash on the day itself. Just a couple of light digs to his kidneys before the service.

I bet the reception will be fun, though. Not many couples choose Beat It as the tune for their first dance.

And although that American tradition of the bride smashing cake into the groom's face is catching on over here, they usually take it out of the tin first.

Lisa's sunny outlook

LISA Riley performed to the Morecambe and Wise theme Bring Me Sunshine on BBC1's Strictly Come Dancing.

By the size of Lisa (right), I'd always assumed she was more of a Bring Me Sun-Pat kinda girl.

Meanwhile, ex-Westlife crooner Nicky Byrne danced to the new Bond theme Skyfall.

His Argentine Tango routine had a Bond flavour and finished with him appearing to slap his partner to the floor.

So I think we can assume he was being Sean Connery.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK? JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

THE relatively poor are demonised for daring to have babies when in receipt of benefits.

But when very, very rich people that we fund get up the duff – adding ever more to the taxpayers' bill – apparently we're meant to forget all that and CELEBRATE.

Well, not me.

Whether or not the Duchess of Cambridge is pregnant, I really couldn't give a flying ct.

TODAY sees the arch enemy Old Father Time catch up with me once again.

Forty two years old today and what have I got to show for it?

Gradually sagging bollocks, a tw*t of a bladder that wakes me at 5am each day and a couple of highly unattractive grey chest hairs.

Life begins at 40? Does it f. Death does!

Christmas time makes me whine, women spending cash that's mine

MRS Justin dragged me along to the Trafford Centre on Monday.

For those that don't know it's a huge shopping mall on the outskirts of Manchester.

That's the Trafford Centre, not my missus. She's just huge.

Anyway, she was bristling with anticipation at the thought of dashing in and out of all the shops spending as much of MY MONEY as she possibly could.

Which was greeted by me with as much cheer as learning you've to undergo open heart surgery performed by a pissed, blind bricklayer without anaesthetic.

Is there ANY more hateful place to be in December than "At The Shops"?

They're all filled with deranged women tugging screaming children behind them with one hand while clutching 19 multi-coloured jumpers in the other.

You see birds for what they really are – presents-obsessed madwomen who would literally KILL for a pair of Ugg boots.

Your ears are violently raped by whatever alleged tune Cliff Richard has ruined for you this year.

And finding a new planet with life similar to that on earth is much easier than finding wherever it was you left your bastard car.

"Bit it's only once a year," cry the pro-Christmas lobby.

Yeah – a "once" that lasts about three months and bleeds you drier than a Sun Valley raisin.

Bah cing humbug!

Our flashin' model is driving fellas crazy

KINKY Claire Andrisani not only has a huge pair of boobs – she loves flashing them at strangers too!

And the busty brunette babe regularly stops traffic by whipping out her marvellous 32FF assets to gob-smacked drivers.

The gorgeous 27-year-old said: "I'm a bit of a closet flasher. My favourite trick is to cheekily flash passing motorists!"

By ISOBEL DICKINSON

isobel@sundaysport.co.uk

"You can see them double-taking, struggling to believe what they are seeing. The look on their face is just priceless."

The shapely babe, from Wembley, north London, also admits that she struggles to convince people her boobs are 100 per cent NATURAL.

The bouncy beauty revealed: "I get it all the time – 'Her boobs are so big they must be fake'.

"But they're not. I promise you, hand on heart, these are my boobs. And yes, I'm proud to say I haven't been anywhere near a cosmetic surgeon."

"I've got to the point now where I just get them out if people start to doubt me and say, 'Go on then, have a feel!'"

"That always works and I've found that other girls really love having a little fondle."

THIS WEEK IT'S...

MARIA WHITTAKER

MARVELLOUS Maria Whittaker was for a time the nation's number one Page 3 girl.

The Hounslow horn-pot, now 43, made her topless glamour debut in 1985 while still a teenager, and was soon one of the most famous faces in the country.

With her brunette hair, brown eyes, cheeky smile and all-natural 36DD breasts, she became one of the most celebrated glamour models of the 1980s alongside Samantha Fox and Linda Lusardi.

In 1987, Maria appeared on the cover of computer game Barbarian: The Ultimate Warrior along with Gladiators star Michael Van Wijk, better known as Wolf.

She was also the star of Maria Whittaker's X-Mas Strip Poker, a computer game released in 1988.

And in 1989 she was voted Page 3 Girl Of The Year and was ranked as Glamour Girl No. 80 in Glamour Girls: An Illustrated Encyclopedia.

Before breaking into modelling,

By JUSTIN DUNN

justin@sundaysport.co.uk

Maria appeared as a Hill's Angel in two episodes of The Benny Hill Show in 1983.

In 1986, she appeared in the movie Whoops Apocalypse, making her second screen appearance in Tank Mallin in 1989.

Maria was a singer in the band The Rhythm Zone and in 1990, following in the footsteps of fellow Page Three girl Samantha Fox, she attempted a music career with a single called Stop Right Now.

Flopped

The song flopped – but thankfully Maria returned to modelling, doing FULLY NUDE photo shoots for Mayfair and other men's magazines.

Her younger sister Lisa also appeared on Page Three, and the sisters posed together for topless photo shoots.

Now is now married to rapper Michael West – aka The Rebel MC – and is a full-time mum to their two children.

OAP death plunge lift firm taken to court

AN ELDERLY rest home resident fell to her death down a lift shaft after it was left unsecured by an engineer, a court heard.

Elizabeth Young, 92, was found face down, lying on top of the lift car after falling 10ft down from the second floor of the Heathdale Rest Home in Whitley Bay in September 2010.

Newcastle Crown Court heard the lift had been out of service for two days before the death, awaiting new parts for a fault.

Prosecutor Susan Hirst said staff were entitled to believe the lift mechanism and door had been left in a condition where it did not present a risk to anyone in the building.

Lift Engineer Paul Thompson, of Denton Burn, Newcastle, and his bosses Derwent Lift Services Ltd, based in Stanley, Co. Durham, are both being tried on offences of failing to discharge a duty under the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974.

The court heard it was Thompson, 61, who had been called out when the lift malfunctioned two days before the accident.

Both deny the charges and the trial continues.

MIDWEEK

SCIENTISTS have discovered a food that diminishes a woman's sex drive by 90%. It's called a wedding cake.

Uke robbers pluck lagers

BUNGLING thieves tried to rob a six-pack of beers by hitting a shop assistant over the head with a UKULELE.

The pair – a man and a woman – entered a petrol station in one night last week and tried to pinch super-strength lager.

When a member of staff spotted what they were up to, he ordered them to return the beer while calling the police.

A source said: "The male suspect argued with the employee and then hit him over the head with a ukulele, shattering the instrument and cutting the victim's scalp."

When officers arrived at the scene in Seattle, Washington, the shop assistant was bleeding profusely but the suspects had fled with their lagers.

Police are still probing the incident and the assistant is recovering.

Chris is wild about topping music charts

BBC Springwatch presenter Chris Packham has revealed a wild ambition – beating the X Factor winner in the battle for this year's Christmas No.1 single.

The wildlife campaigner and punk fan, 51, hopes to top the chart with charity single The Present of Life.

The video for the song – by Rapanui – features Packham on drums and TV weatherman Michael Fish, 68, on guitar.

Wildlife documentary maker Sir David Attenborough, 86, and Radio 1 DJ Rob da Bank, 39, also appear in the 3min 51 secs video.

The single will be sold on iTunes from December 7, raising money for the Badger Trust, which campaigns against badger culling.

Packham said: "To get the Christmas No.1 would be amazing."

Packham has sneaked the titles of songs by David Bowie, Manic Street Preachers, The Cure and The Smiths into links on his TV shows.

Lezzas kick-off over lost 'cock'

A LESBIAN allegedly attacked her lover over a missing COCK.

Artesha Donaldson is said to have laid into Latoya Hudson when she couldn't find her "detachable latex penis."

Hudson also claimed she was left with a sore head when Donaldson's brother grabbed her while his sister continued hitting her.

Donaldson, 24, was arrested in Rock Hill, South Carolina, for assault and battery.

She admitted engaging in "mutual combat" with her girlfriend but denied throwing the ironing board at her, adding that her brother tried only to break up the fight.

Cops said they had no info on the whereabouts of the missing sex toy.

HEAD THE BALLS FOOTIE'S LOONIEST CHARACTERS

DIEGO MARADONA

THE footie season's in full flow and with wall-to-wall TV coverage, you can sit back and watch the sport's pampered prima donnas whenever you fancy.

But in our Head The Balls feature, we remind you of the violent nutters, randy rebels and peacocking playboys who graced the beautiful game with their presence.

Every week we'll be putting one of football's most mental mavericks under the microscope.

And this week it is coke-hoovering handball genius Diego Maradona.

HAND OF GOD: Diego's infamous 'goal' in the 1986 World Cup

By JON LIVESEY

jonl@sundaysport.co.uk

DIEGO Maradona was both gifted and crazy in equal measure.

The best player of all time depending on who you ask – the only other contender is Pele – his passion for the beautiful game was matched only by his love of drugs, booze, women, guns, violence and revolutions.

When it comes to being a bit of a loon, this fella ticks every box.

Born in Lanus, Argentina, Maradona grew up in Villa Fiorito, a shantytown near Buenos Aires.

Playing as an attacking midfielder or forward, the 5ft 5ins magician's magnificent and mesmerising displays for Argentinos Juniors and then Boca Juniors proved enough to convince Spanish giants Barcelona to shell out a then world-record fee of £5million for his services.

But things didn't go to plan. While at the Catalan club, Maradona started taking cocaine. A lot of cocaine.

In fact, his consumption has been so excessive, he makes Pete Doherty look like Sir Cliff Richard.

And seemingly the drugs affected his temperament. After one of his final games, against Athletic Bilbao, all hell broke loose at the final whistle and he began launching karate kicks at opposition players. Not long after, he was sold to Napoli for another record, £6.9m.

But in Italy, his cocaine use soared and his problems grew worse. In total, he was fined around £50,000 for missing games and training, and faced a scandal regarding an illegitimate son.

However, his off-field issues didn't stop him becoming the best player in the world.

At the 1986 World Cup in Mexico, he led his nation to victory, scoring two memorable goals against England in the quarter finals.

Flicked

With the Falklands War fresh in the memory and tensions between the two countries running high, Maradona did little to improve relations.

For his first goal, he flicked the ball past Peter Shilton using his hand – he's called it the Hand Of God – and his second was quite simply one of the best goals ever.

Receiving the ball in his own half, he dribbled past five men before rounding the keeper and slotting home. Pure class.

In 1990, he enjoyed more success, leading Argentina to a runners-up spot at the World Cup in Italy but, back at his club, his problems continued.

NEXT WEEK: ROBBIE FOWLER

After serving a 15-month ban for testing positive for cocaine, he left Napoli in disgrace in 1992 and signed for Sevilla in Spain.

He spent one year in Spain before returning to Argentina to play for Newell's Old Boys – just in time to get himself in shape for the 1994 World Cup in America.

A few months before the tournament, he was given a suspended sentence for SHOOTING reporters with an air rifle.

In Argentina's second match at the World Cup, Maradona scored a screamer and celebrated by gurning furiously in front of a TV camera.

Unsurprisingly, he was called in for a drug test. And unsurprisingly, he failed – this time testing positive for ephedrine, an amphetamine.

Following two years at Boca Juniors, he announced his decision to hang up his boots.

Since retiring, he's managed the Argentina national team, fronted his own controversial chat show, starred in a documentary film, pledged allegiance to communist revolutionary Fidel Castro, admitted a number of affairs and carried on taking cocaine.

After health complications related to drinking and cocaine use, Maradona quit both in 2005. Asked about his rival for the title of the world's greatest ever player, he once said: "Pele should go back to the museum."

THE LOWDOWN

FAVOURITE PART OF YOUR BODY

I love my boobs, obviously, but I like my legs too because they're toned and strong. I always get compliments when I'm wearing a mini-dress.

MOST SESSIONS IN A DAY

Probably the time I did it SIX times in one day. This was spread over 10 hours, though. We had breaks!

BIGGEST TURN ON

I love it when a guy gives me a really long, relaxing body massage. Then I'll repay him with a massage of his own.

FANTASY SHAG

I'd love to have sex with George Clooney. Is that too obvious? He's just so sexy and handsome. If you're reading this George, give me a call!

SEXUAL FANTASY

I'd love to do it on top of the Eiffel Tower, looking out at the city lights over Paris. Need I say more?

SHOW & TELL

with PEACH KEANE

'I love squirting whipped cream on my nipples - then watching my man dive in'

SAUCY Peach Keane may look soft and sweet - but she likes it spicy when it comes to sex.

The Oxford babe, 23, revealed that she loves to dress up with her lucky fella and dabbles in role play to keep things hot.

Gorgeous Peach, a 32E, also

By JESSICA HAWORTH
jessica@sundaysport.co.uk confessed that her ultimate fantasy is public bonking in Paris, the City of Love.

If that's got you pining for sweet Peach, read on - but you might need a sit down after!

PEACHES, YOU LOOK SWEET ENOUGH TO EAT! BUT TELL US, ARE YOU INNOCENT IN THE BEDROOM?

Thank you, you know how to make a girl blush! People always assume I'm cute and innocent, but I can be a minx in the bedroom. A lot of guys I've been with have been really shocked because I like to let go in bed - I love moaning and talking dirty while we're doing it. I can be sweet at other times, though, sometimes I like playing the shy and retiring type. It really teases men!

WHAT OTHER TRICKS DO YOU USE?

I love dressing up in sexy lingerie, anything lacy is really hot. My favourite set is black push-up bra, black lacy thong and stockings. I have a set of suspenders to match, too - if I'm really in the mood I'll put them on and a pair of heels. I like taking my time with a man; kissing his neck, touching him all over and telling him what I want to do. Then I expect him to do the same - I like a man to 'warm me up' until I'm ready to explode!

DO YOU PREFER FAST OR SLOW SEX?

It depends what mood I'm in, to be honest. Sometimes I just fancy a quickie to see me through, but it is nice to take your time with it, too. The only thing I really can't stand is when a man finishes and doesn't see me through - I hate selfish lovers.

WHAT WAS THE BEST SEX YOU'VE EVER HAD?

Oh, it's hard to choose off the top of my head, but I can tell you that I've been very lucky. Most of the guys I've slept with have been great in bed, so it's hard to pick my favourite. I dated one guy who was really into role play, it made the sex so much more fun and exciting. I remember one time he got me to sit at a bar in a dress, heels and long coat and he sidled in next to me in a trench coat and trilby hat. He pretended that he was a private investigator employed by my husband to spy on me, but that if I went back to his hotel room and slept with him, he wouldn't tell my hubby what I was up to. He took me back to his room and told me to undress slowly, what to do to him, how to position myself - it was really sexy. I'm usually quite dominant so it was really exciting to act the other way. It really turned me on!

HOW ABOUT THE WORST?

I've never really had a bad shag - as I said, I've been quite lucky. But there have been times where there just wasn't any sexual chemistry there and it felt a bit forced and awkward. I like a man to be confident in the bedroom - and if he isn't, it just doesn't really do it for me.

DO YOU USE ANY SEX TOYS?

I have a few which see me through a dry spell. I don't like using them all the time, sometimes it's fun to just do it myself without the use of toys. I've used them with guys too, getting them to hold it on me. It drives them mad - they love pleasuring me in a different way. I'd never give it up for the real thing, though. There's something deeply satisfying about the feeling of a man on top of you!

SOME WOMEN PREFER CHOCOLATE TO SEX - HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT THAT?

Really? I've never heard that one before! I can imagine that some women love chocolate, but who would actually give it up for sex? Personally, I'd take both. I've played with chocolate body paint before and it's been really fun. You just can't underestimate how sexy it is to get so intimate with someone using only your mouth. I'd suggest they give that a go... then decide.

DO YOU LIKE PLAYING WITH FOOD IN THE BEDROOM, THEN?

Only certain foods. For example, whipped cream is really fun. I know it's a cliché, but you can spread it all over your body or just concentrate on certain parts you want attention to be paid to. I love squirting it on my nipples, then waiting for my man to dive in. Men seem to like it, too!

Teacher faces prison after student shag

A SEXY blonde school teacher has admitted shagging one of her former students.

Kelly McKenzie Watson, 34, pleaded guilty to having sex with the 17-year-old while she was his teacher at a boarding school for kids with special needs.

She began dating the boy - who was a pupil in her class for a year - after he left New Haven residential school in Los Angeles.

The school works with at-risk and troubled teenagers.

Watson now faces up to three years in prison when she is sentenced in February.

Deputy District Attorney Mary-Ellen Barrett said: "It's definitely a betrayal of trust. It's just a very sad situation."

The San Diego police department received a tip on July 30 about inappropriate conduct between Watson and the former student.

A police spokesman said: "They met when he was a student of hers and they later forged a relationship that was inappropriate."

MAN walks into a pub with some tarmac under his arm and says: "I'll have a pint of lager and one for the road."

Jenna Anne Schultz, 26, sent an explicit naked photo of herself to a 17-year-old boy.

Schultz, from Minneapolis had been working as a student teacher at Simley High School when she began texting the student.

The teen told school authorities he found the teacher "annoying".

When questioned, Ms Schultz said she must have been "very drunk".

She will be sentenced for "contributing to the delinquency of a minor" early next year after pleading guilty.

I guess it depends on my mood. Sometimes I want to be treated like a lady, wine, dined and then seduced.

I'll be in a beautiful gown and he'll be in a smart suit and I'll invite him in for a nightcap. Before long we'll be kissing and my clothes will be slipping off. Then we'll explore each other's body...every inch...and be-

Dear Stevie,

I'M a 39-year-old single woman and I moved into a flat on my own a couple of months ago.

On the first night, there was a knock at my door and when I opened it a guy with long hair and a beard introduced himself as my neighbour.

I invited him in and over a glass of wine he told me he was an artist who specialised in restoring old paintings.

He left after a while but the next night he called again, and once more I invited him in.

After a while he told me I had a beautiful face and figure and asked if I'd pose naked for him at some time.

I declined but for some reason I reached out, took his hand, and laid it on my right breast, letting him give it a gentle squeeze.

I eased his hand and he left, but he has been round several times since and now to my delight he always touches my breasts or bottom.

I love it and wonder if I should pose for him after all. What do you think?

PA, East London

Stevie says:
Why not? It's obvious that you'd BOTH enjoy it!

Dear Stevie,

MY hubby recently confessed to a fetish about a leather-clad dominatrix, but instead of wanting me to dress up, he told me that HE wanted to wear the kit.

Yet when I saw him dressed in basque, panties, PVC gloves and thigh-high leather boots he looked so ridiculous that I burst out laughing.

Now he's sulking. What should I do?

LM, Glasgow

Stevie says:
YOU wear the gear as well, you'll both have plenty of fun.

WITH STEVIE LOUISE 20, 32D-24-34 FROM ABERDEEN

MY FIRST SEX WAS WITH A STRIPPER!

Dear Stevie,

I WAS a 19-year-old virgin and I had never had a steady boyfriend before - in fact I'd never so much as been kissed by a man.

That was until two weeks ago when I went on a hen night to see a troupe of hunky male strippers with my pals.

The place was really noisy and full of screaming, drunken women shouting the most obscene stuff at the men as they performed their saucy act.

One of the guys was a huge hunk with long dark hair, and I could have died when he came over to our table, stripped totally starkers and then sat on my knee.

Bigger

He was very handsome and even though I'd never seen a penis in real life before, I could see that his was bigger than the average six-inches I'd read about in my women's mags.

Anyway, once the music stopped he gave me a peck on the cheek and pushed a card into my hand.

I went to the toilet to read it and it turned out to be a request for me to meet him in the car park at the end of the show.

He was waiting for me outside when I got out. He gave me a peck on the cheek again, took my hand and walked me to a van.

Once inside we started to kiss and grope at each other - then he slipped his hand down my dress and felt my breasts.

I was breathing heavily as he tweaked my nipples which were as hard as I'd ever known them to be, that's how excited I was.

Then he stood up and dropped his jeans and pants to reveal his huge, erect penis.

Instinctively I reached out and gripped it, feeling it twitch beneath my fingers.

Then I found my tongue on it, licking drops of liquid oozing from it, which he seemed to find exciting. Frenziedly he pulled my knickers off then he parted my legs and gently eased himself into me.

He was really gentle and patient as he built up a rhythm sliding in and out of my wet vagina.

I was having my first ever bonk which had me climaxing like I'd never done before myself. I came again when I felt him ejaculate inside me, the warmth flooding me intimately.

Then, after some heavy petting, we dressed and got out of the van - to be greeted by the rest of his troupe cheering.

Now I feel really used.

What do you think?
SP, Northants

Stevie says:
OK, you were just another conquest. But forget him and try more men.

Dear Stevie,

I'M a long-distance lorry driver who travels all over the UK.

One night I was parked in a lay-by watching the TV when there was a gentle tap on the door.

I looked down and saw this good-looking, tallish lass with long blonde hair and a pair of breasts to die for.

The young lady asked if I wanted some company and was soon up in the cab. She was stunning looking and I couldn't say no to her.

She had a really deep, sexy voice and kept giving me horny come-on looks as she talked about how she enjoyed the company of men.

It wasn't long before she leaned in and kissed me, at the same time grabbing and kneading the bulge in my jeans.

She quickly unzipped me and was soon giving me the best blow-job ever as I slid my hands inside her top and fondled her heavy tits.

I was loving every minute of it and didn't want it to end.

Everything was going fine until I took the plunge and slipped my hand into her knickers - and encountered MEAT AND TWO VEG!

I was stunned, but then thought, 'what the hell', and gave it a tug.

I've been happily married for 27 years and never been with a man before and I'm worried.

Am I turning gay.

DC, South Wales

Stevie says:
NO you just got carried away.

Dear Stevie,

MY WIFE and I are in our early fifties, happily married with up till recently a good sex life.

But lately she complained I have not been giving her as much sex as she wants.

We chatted about it and agreed that she could get some elsewhere, so long as I could watch.

Three days later she came home with TWO MEN from work and changed into a sexy short dress.

She sat with the men on the sofa and pulled up her dress so they could see her black stockings and suspenders.

Then they took it in turns to shag her, but they didn't last long the first time.

But she soon got them hard again and then they gave her a really good seeing-to.

She said it was the best f she had ever had and later on gave ME great sex.

Do you think we should continue?

NC, Cheshire

Stevie says:
IF everybody's happy, why not?

Us lezzas gave straight girls hard time

Dear Stevie,

I'M a lesbian and my girlfriend and I share a house with two beautiful straight girls.

We all get on very well and we talk about sex a lot, as all girls in their early 20s do.

Though they have taken the piss out of us, on many a drunken night they've talked about wanting to know what it's like to f a woman.

One night we came home to find our housemates lying asleep on our bed in their bras and knickers.

It looked like they had been trying to experiment but had chickened out. So we decided they should finally experience some proper girl-on-girl fun.

We took off their underwear and then tied them up with our silk scarves.

When they woke up they were startled a bit at first, but when we told them what we planned they smiled and we kissed them till they were aroused.

I tongued the sopping wet pussy of one of the girls while my girlfriend went down on the other one. Then I decided to use my sex toys.

I got my two favourite dildos and started to ease them up the wet snatches of the girls. They writhed on the bed in their restraints and were soon shouting "harder, harder!"

We untied them and started kissing each other's boobs. And then me and my girlfriend had our fannies licked by them. After that, we put on our strap-on dildos and took them in both holes.

Sadly the next day the girls said it was a one-off, but me and my lover can't forget our foursome.

Any suggestions on how we can persuade them to have another?

PK, North-East

Stevie says:
OH, it sounds like you'll soon find a way!

BRITAIN'S NO.1 ASTROLOGER WRITES FOR

WITH JUSTIN TOPER

CAPRICORN (22 Dec - 19 Jan): YOU may have to come to terms with a break from the past. And yet you must seize every opportunity that comes your way. At the same time you are afforded a chance to distance yourself from anything that is making you feel uneasy or insecure. Indeed, the remainder of the week should be fairly quiet and uneventful but no doubt there is a small private matter to deal with. This time there is no failure in communication.

LEO (23 Jul - 22 Aug): AFTER a chaotic time you can sift through various plans or arrangements that are on the agenda. Even if a recent encounter or journey didn't turn out the way you had hoped or expected, you could be perfectly placed to experience something that you have been focusing on for some while. The remainder of the week should contain minor gains or other benefits. Then a complex personal matter will be resolved, with or without you being present.

AQUARIUS (20 Jan - 18 Feb): YOU should enjoy a measure of personal success, though looking back you may be troubled by your own inadequacy to deal with an awkward situation emotionally. As it is, you cannot write off one association, even if you have recently received a slap in the face. Meanwhile, there is some unfinished business to attend to during the rest of the week, but meetings will prove fruitful. After that, a friendship will be strengthened and it's an honest pursuit.

VIRGO (23 Aug - 22 Sep): IN many respects, you should positively flourish and work hard at achieving your aims. At the same time a decision has been arrived at which is of some importance, especially as a bold move is required. Naturally, the last thing you want to do is cause an upheaval, despite the fact that family members or co-workers can be easily coerced. The Moon will be passing through Virgo during the duration of the week and suffice to say you will learn from any personal mistakes.

PISCES (19 Feb - 20 Mar): A DREAM move is still a distinct possibility, though of course others have the power to block you as you found out at the start of the week. Do not be deterred, even if you are refused any help or sent packing. Instead, what you must do is try to cultivate one relationship and take a completely personal approach to situations. True, you can expect some fairly mixed reactions over the next couple of days. However, you should be pleasantly surprised by a certain person's attitude.

LIBRA (23 Sep - 22 Oct): THOSE delicate Libran scales may not be perfectly balanced. Indeed, what has just taken place seems to have turned your plans upside down. Not in a bad way. Chances are, what is about to be verified will set you on a course to advance your personal dreams. In the meantime, you may make stiff demands on your conscience or feel guilty about excluding those who were supposed to travel with you. No matter. A journey won't turn out as predicted – perhaps better.

ARIES (21 Mar - 19 Apr): ADMITTEDLY, everything seems to have gone slightly haywire and you may have to put your plans on hold for the time being. In reality, work is probably your best therapy during the remainder of the week and your contribution will be quite valued. The time is also ripe to consider an arrangement which could take you far and wide and there is no lack of vision. Either way, you will soon be on the move, despite the fact that there is a lot of ground to cover.

SCORPIO (23 Oct - 21 Nov): HANDING out money left, right and centre is a temptation that must be avoided and that you need to remain prudent. True, the cost of setting up a deal may seem very little compared to the rewards. But finances are not the only issue and you must be more choosy about who you do business with. Fortunately, you have some valuable allies or loyal friends and there is no reason why you cannot end the week early. Expect and look for hospitality.

TAURUS (20 Apr - 20 May): RECENT events or developments may have left you tired and that you seem unprepared for what has just happened – personally or at work. Granted, you don't know all the details, but a beneficial alteration of some kind is on the cards and, obviously, this requires a great deal of faith. In the meantime, you are sure to enjoy a brief respite or a little light relief. You might even have a romantic experience, whether you want to be involved or not.

SAGITTARIUS (22 Nov - 21 Dec): BEAR in mind that the Sun in Sagittarius was recently challenged by Jupiter your ruler – and still is for that matter. Therefore, you may want nothing to do with certain people, even though there is endless talk of a reconciliation. How you can end one relationship – you simply can't. In fact, in all probability a new kind of understanding will be achieved. Meanwhile some kind of material success is indicated and someone who values you more than you imagine.

GEMINI (21 May - 20 Jun): THE Sun recently opposed by Jupiter in Gemini has probably placed an extra strain on one relationship. More to the point, someone may challenge any personal arguments, even though you seem convinced that a partnership is sustainable. There is no doubt that a decision will be made which makes things much more complex, but it's a wonderful exercise all the same. Right now, the accent is on matters close to home and all appears relatively blissful.

CANCER (21 Jun - 22 Jul): WITH some much going on behind the scenes, you may feel that you have stumbled on strange territory. In fact, what is revealed will yield some interesting information and a better understanding of what is happening in the background. The main thing is that a major breakthrough is about to occur and in principle the entire pattern of your life will change for the better. Meanwhile, you should be footloose and fancy free and there are numerous sources to tap into.

HAS JUSTIN BEEN SPOT ON WITH YOUR STARS – HE WAS FOR THIS READER!

TELL US: TOPER@SUNDAYSPORT.CO.UK

I ALWAYS thought Justin was good – now I KNOW he's amazing!

A few months ago our beloved family cat went missing. After searching high and low for Daisy, we had given up hope of ever seeing her again.

That meant a lot of upset in our house – even my hubby shed a tear.

But that week Justin predicted in my horoscope that if I kept waiting and didn't give up hope, I would find something I held dear.

So we made the decision we wouldn't get another pet straight away.

Sure enough Daisy popped back through the cat-flap two weeks later.

I don't think I can ever thank you enough.

Cook wants even more as England belief grows

ALASTAIR COOK says England will have to raise their game again at Eden Gardens to stay in with a chance of a historic Test series win in India.

Confidence and self-belief have been bolstered after a famous second Test victory in Mumbai, but captain Cook (below) warns there is no room for satisfaction at what England have so far achieved.

They will begin the third match of four with the score level at 1-1, and with many sensing Cook's team could become the first from England to win a series in India since 1984-85.

"It's given us a lot of confidence, certainly," Cook said of last week's success.

"It's given us some

belief that what we're doing is the right stuff, but that doesn't mean it'll count to anything when it comes to this game.

"All the training we're doing, all the practising we're doing against spin, is the right stuff.

"We hope this week we can continue that improvement.

"We're going to need to if we're going to win.

"We're going to have to have some other outstanding performances, like we did in Mumbai.

"I don't think you can ever be satisfied."

Steven Finn is likely to replace the out-of-form Stuart Broad as one of just two front-line seamers.

BIG DADDY LEWIS TARGETS TREBLE

DARTS

ADRIAN LEWIS will open the defence of his Ladbrokes World Darts Championship against Dutch debutant Gino Vos.

The draw for the £1million event was made on Tuesday alongside the unveiling of the new World Championship trophy, named in memory of the late Sky Sports commentator Sid Waddell.

Lewis (below) has defeated Gary Anderson and Andy Hamilton in the final in the past two years, and has set his sights on making it a hat-trick on New Year's Day.

"I'm really excited," said Lewis, who became a father for the second time on Saturday morning after the birth of a boy, Matthew.

"Gino's a really good young player so it will be a tough game, but I'm feeling great.

"My form's improving and, now that Matthew's been born, it's a weight off my shoulders and I can focus on preparing for the World Championship now."

Fifteen-times world champ Phil Taylor faces Irish left-hander Michael Mansell in the first round.

Ritchie slaps down cheeky Wales bid

ACHEEKY bid by Wales to play their crunch 2015 World Cup pool match against England in Cardiff has been firmly rejected by the Rugby Football Union.

England are the host nation of the prestige tournament, but the RFU's bid included the Millennium Stadium possibly being used for up to eight matches, including two quarter-finals.

England, Wales and Australia were drawn in the World Cup's pool of death, with the likelihood of the trio being joined by Fiji as Oceania qualifiers.

Immediately after the draw, Welsh Rugby Union boss Roger Lewis suggested Wales should play England at the Millennium Stadium because "it is the finest rugby stadium in the world".

RFU chief executive Ian Ritchie's response to the WRU was a thank you but no thank you – and that is the message he will take to the board of England Rugby 2015, who will make the final decision on venues.

"We have a very nice home of our own and I would hope very much we would contemplate playing the match here," said Ritchie (left), who is overseeing a £76million upgrade of Twickenham stadium.

"With our modest little stadium here at Twickenham, with the further investment, we might be able to make it into a decent spot to play rugby."

GARETH ROBERTS

CUTTING THROUGH THE BULLSHIT EVERY WEEK

A postman marking Luis Suarez on a rock-hard pitch after he's just got changed in a cubby-hole dressing room with dodgy heating... now that's what the FA Cup is about!

BEFORE his injury-time winner in Sunday's FA Cup clash, MK Dons defender Jon Otsemobor was best remembered for being shot up the bum while out in a Liverpool nightclub in 2003. Now AFC Wimbledon fans will always remember him as a pain in the arse.

YOU can't beat the FA Cup third-round draw.

I'd just watched a decent second-round tie on the box – MK Dons v AFC Wimbledon – and, although the bastard franchise baby of a real football club won, there was still something for the traditionalist when the draw began minutes after the final whistle.

As all around what made the game great falls on its arse to the knockout punch of money-grabbing bastards, it warms the cockles to see fellas in suits awkwardly plucking balls from a pot.

Like the theme tune to 5Live's Sports Report or that bloke who reads the results on telly's Final Score, it's the same as it ever was – refreshingly lo-fi. Sky Sports News should take note.

It's not all about suited-up smart arses swiping football pitch-sized iPads.

If it were up to me, I'd bring back the original vidprinter tomorrow.

Some cracking ties were pulled from the pot – although the shouty journos that populate sport telly these days immediately jumped on West Ham v Man United as the "tie of the round".

Is it? Can't say it sums up what the FA Cup is about for me.

Tottenham v Coventry is good, just because it brings memories flooding back of the classic 1987 final when Keith Houchen's brilliant diving header forced extra time and Gary Mabbutt's knee won it for the Sky Blues.

But what's much more likely to get hands rubbing and faces smiling is the prospect of a giant-killing – David v Goliath, the potential banana skin, the form book going out the window. In a one-off cup game, it can still happen.

Liverpool travelling to face either Mansfield or Lincoln on a freezing January day – now that's what the FA Cup is about.

A postman marking Luis Suarez on a rock-solid pitch after the player who pockets a six-figure weekly salary has just got changed in a cubby-hole dressing room with dodgy heating – that's what the FA Cup is about.

Everton, too, face a good old "tricky tie" with a trip to Cheltenham Town or Hereford United.

Between them, the two Merseyside teams have won 12 FA Cups. Both clubs represent a scalp worth taking and, who knows, perhaps a commentator will again scream a modern-day equivalent to Motty's classic: "Radford again – WHAT A GOAL – Radford the scorer!"

That was Ronnie Radford's legendary goal for Hereford against Newcastle in 1972 – that's what the FA Cup is about.

There are far too many football suits and haughty-voiced journalists queuing up to tell us the FA Cup is dead and that fourth place in the Premier League to earn Champions League riches is where it's at.

But, no matter how many times revenue robots tell us otherwise, winning a cup matters to fans – and so does a giant-killing.

Come the weekend of January 5, grounds will be packed and fans will travel far and wide to watch their team compete in the cup.

Lower league players will bust a gut to prove they can cut it with the big boys.

Now THAT'S what the FA Cup is about.

And whatever those briefcase wankers do, they can't take that away from us...

FOOTIE BALLS-UPS

"Joe Royle sent me a text saying that keeping us up would be like turning water into wine or feeding the 5,000 or something. I've never read the bible, but he meant it would be a miracle"

– Thanks there to QPR boss Harry Redknapp. We would never have worked that one out...

PLATINI'S EURO SHOCKER

MICHEL PLATINI talks some shite – and the UEFA president has been at it again.

The Champions League and the Europa League are both flawed competitions – there are too many teams, the group stages go on for too long and there are too many games that mean f all.

So what's the genius plan of Platini (right) to breathe new life into the Champions League? Put even MORE teams in it!

Some of us still miss the days when it was a genuine knockout competition for teams that truly were champions. The current format as good as guarantees that the better teams get through the group stages, even if they have a bad day or are on the wrong end of a shock result along the way.

Where's the fun in that?

But it's not about fun, it's about money – as per fing usual.

Big teams reaching the business end of the competition means big money from the TV companies.

And that's what gets Michel's mojo going... not what's genuinely good for the game.

Juss in time for Hammers push

JUSSI JAASKELAINEN has helped West Ham up to third in the Premier League clean sheet table.

Only Man City and Chelsea have recorded more shut-outs than Sam Allardyce's happy Hammers.

Jaaskelainen's outstanding form since his summer switch from Bolton has been a major factor in that run.

But the keeper, 37, insists credit must go to his teammates for the rock solid defensive start to the season.

By IAN WINROW

Jaaskelainen said: "When you play at this level as a goalkeeper it is all about consistency.

"Over the course of the season you will make mistakes but the important thing is for the team to keep playing well.

"Like always, it is my job to keep the ball out of the net. You have to look at the positives, then take them into the next game and hopefully do well."

Jaaskelainen (right) helped West Ham to Saturday's 3-1 home triumph over Chelsea after back-to-back defeats at Spurs and Man United.

That leaves the Hammers in eighth spot and they could improve on that standing by clinching a second successive win when Liverpool visit Upton Park on Sunday. Jaaskelainen added: "It was massive to stop our losing run.

"Some teams lose a couple and then go six or seven games without a win, so ending our run at just two games is great. It would be nice now to get back-to-back wins.

"We had three tough games in six days including two away against Spurs and Man United. We had to defend a lot and do a lot of running too."

BAGGIES GET THE BUGGIES

WEST BROM are battling to contain a sickness bug.

Keeper Boaz Myhill came close to missing last week's trip to Swansea while defender Billy Jones was absent from Saturday's defeat to Stoke with the virus.

And summer signing Yassine El Ghanassy was the latest player to fall victim after he was ruled out of Monday's Under-21 clash against Bolton.

Boss Steve Clarke said: "We've had a sickness virus at the club."

There is better news on keeper Ben Foster, who could return following a groin operation for this Saturday's trip to Arsenal.

NEW ED ACHIEVE FOR WOLVES

WOLVES' injury problems have gone from bad to worse after Dave Edwards was ruled out for up to eight weeks.

The midfielder was stretchered off during the second half of Saturday's 4-1 victory at Bristol City nursing a hamstring injury, with scans now having confirmed a tear.

Wanderers are already without the services of Tongo Doumbia, Razak Boukari, Georg Margreitter, Slawomir Peszko, Steven Mouyokolo, Wayne Hennessey, Stephen Hunt, George Elokobi and Jamie O'Hara.

KOP CLASH ON THE BOX

LINCOLN or Mansfield Town's FA Cup third-round meeting with Liverpool is one of five matches selected to be televised.

ESPN will show that tie, featuring a Blue Square Premier outfit against the Anfield giants, and Swansea's all-Premier League clash with Arsenal on Sunday January 6.

ESPN will also televise the meeting between League Two Cheltenham or non-leaguers Hereford and Everton on Monday January 7.

ITV will show the clash between Brighton and Newcastle and West Ham's meeting with Man United on Saturday January 5.

ADDICKS DROP RACISM CLAIMS

CHARLTON'S Danny Haynes and Emmanuel Frimpong have decided not to make an official complaint about racial abuse they claimed to have suffered at Millwall.

Both players said they were abused by Lions supporters following the goalless draw at The Den on Saturday.

But a statement from Charlton read: "Following reports of the racial abuse during Saturday's match against Millwall, and subsequent consultation between the club officials, the police and players, it has been decided that no formal complaint will be made to the police."

VAN IS DRIVING ME TO SUCCEED

By TREVOR WILLIAMS

DANNY WELBECK is determined to soak up as much information as he can from Robin van Persie – even though the Dutchman is blocking his path to the Man United first team.

Although Welbeck is hoping to make his 19th appearance of the season in tonight's Champions League encounter with Cluj at Old Trafford, only 10 of the previous 18 have been as a starter.

And most of those have been as a wide man, rather than through the middle where Welbeck enjoyed so much success at Euro 2012.

Welbeck finished 2012 as England's top scorer, with five goals on the international stage.

Favourite

Yet that contrasts sharply with the single goal he has managed for United this term, which is presumably one of the aspects of Van Persie's game the 21-year-old is keen to brush up on.

He said: "Striker is my favourite position but once I get on the pitch, whether it's out on the wing or in the middle, I just want to enjoy my football and try to produce as good a performance as possible.

"Robin is a different type of striker to ones we have previously had. It's great motivation to see somebody with so much class come into the side and score goals.

Deadly Dan desperate to learn from Robin

"But it's not just his goals that have been pleasing – it's the way he has played all-round and the assists he's got.

"He is a world-class striker and to watch him week in, week out is something that is of great benefit to me.

"He is definitely a player I can look up to."

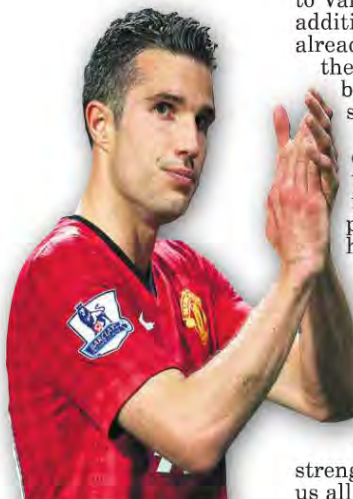

Sir Alex Ferguson sees that wider aspect to Van Persie's game in addition to the 13 goals already contributed to the United cause by his £24million summer signing.

"Robin is not only contributing to the team but improving other players around him," said Fergie.

"He brings a different kind of perspective to our game.

"The one thing we're agreed on is our attacking possibilities are terrific. That's our strength and it's rescued us all season."

DIDN'T HE DO WEL? Welbeck wants to recapture his great England form with United and learn from Van Persie (inset)

RYAN HAILS TAARABT AS KEY FOR R'S

CRUCIAL: Nelsen (left) wants Taarabt to start putting in consistent displays at Loftus Road

ADEL TAARABT has been hailed as the key to QPR surviving in the Premier League this season.

The Moroccan has been in and out of form for the rock-bottom R's, but new boss Harry Redknapp has been told to keep faith in the midfielder.

Defender Ryan Nelsen reckons Taarabt holds the key to getting a first win on the board following Mark Hughes' sacking.

Arsenal and Manchester United are keen on Taarabt but Nelsen said: "Of course, I don't think any player who can contribute to getting us up the table and staying in the Premier League will be going anywhere."

The Kiwi reckons Taarabt can get even better.

He added: "Adel's ability is there for all to see. When he gets in the right spots, he can create stuff."

"All Adel has to do is just be consistent and keep throwing out really good seven or eight out of 10 performances every week and not worry about any of the speculation."

"You can't produce that once every five games. If you want to be rated a great player you have to be consistent - doing it week after week, season after season."

Nelsen says it is time for the Hoops players to take responsibility and drag themselves away from their "horrible position".

Few could have predicted the Londoners' miserable start to the campaign after a host of high-profile names arrived during the summer.

Safety

However, they've started the season without a win in 15 attempts and have just six points to their name - leaving them seven points adrift of safety.

There have been signs of improvement since Redknapp replaced Hughes at the helm, but Nelsen knows there needs to be more.

"Do we need time to gel? Nobody was saying anything like that in August when the players were being signed," he said.

"We as players have to take responsibility for where we are. It's as simple as that."

"It's a horrible position we are in and we know it. We've got to dig ourselves out of it."

QPR head to Wigan this weekend looking for that first elusive victory.

Nelsen added: "We are looking for wins but we are two games unbeaten now and we've just got to try to get that first three points."

HOLMAN CAN'T WAIT FOR FIGHT

BRETT HOLMAN says Aston Villa have the fight for a survival scrap.

Villa are two points clear of the bottom three heading into Saturday's Stoke showdown.

But the picture looks rosier than a week ago after a win over Reading and draw against QPR last week left them 15th.

Holman said: "If you get a point against the teams around you and stop them getting three it can be as important as a victory on another day."

"To grind out results and get draws if we need to is a great trait to have in the team."

By BRENDAN McLOUGHLIN

Holman now aims to help ease the burden on Villa's strikers after getting off the mark against QPR.

Only rock-bottom Rangers have scored less in the Premier League than Villa.

Aussie ace Holman said: "I've scored goals for every club I've been with. Hopefully I can get a few more for this club."

Potters are tight thanks to Tony's Italian passion

By IAN BAKER

STOKE owner Peter Coates believes his club's outstanding defending is all down to Tony Pulis' Italian love affair.

The Potters have claimed seven clean sheets this term, with only Manchester City leaking fewer goals.

And Coates insists that is down to the way Pulis (left) studied Italian sides' famous defensive strategy in the 1970s.

He said: "I know he cut his teeth on Italian football during his early interest in coaching."

"The so-called 'Catenaccio' defensive system interested him and the Italians haven't done too badly, have they, with their four World Cups?"

Stoke have conceded just two goals at home this term.

Coates added: "Tony's record speaks for itself. He is very good at organising defensive play and that is a great credit to him."

"It's a feature of modern-day reporting that not much credit is paid to defences."

"They just want to talk about goals, but defending is an art as well."

NOT BOTHERED: Krul

RUNNER-UP WON'T BE KRUL FATE FOR TOON

BORDEAUX v NEWCASTLE
EUROPA LEAGUE
 Thursday, 6pm - ESPN

TIM KRUL agrees with Jose Mourinho when it comes to Europe - it's not where you start, it's where you finish.

Toon return to action 72 hours after their much-needed 3-0 win over Wigan to halt a four-game top-flight losing streak as they travel to Bordeaux to bring the curtain down on their successful Europa League group stage.

Newcastle have already qualified along with the French side, but the winners are guaranteed top spot and with it an easier draw in the last 32 when the pairings are made for the knockout phase on December 20.

Krul would love to go through as group winners, but insists he's on the same wavelength as Mourinho when it comes to whether he wants to finish first or second.

The Real Madrid boss has enjoyed European glory after coming runner-up in groups in the past, and Dutch keeper Krul said: "We've qualified and that's the main priority."

Limped

"Is it important to get that top spot? Yes and no."

"I heard Jose Mourinho say that every time he's won the Champions League it's been after he's finished second in the group."

"Great teams are dropping down from the Champions League but I've also seen a lot of good teams in the Europa League already. I'm not really fazed whether we're top of the group or second."

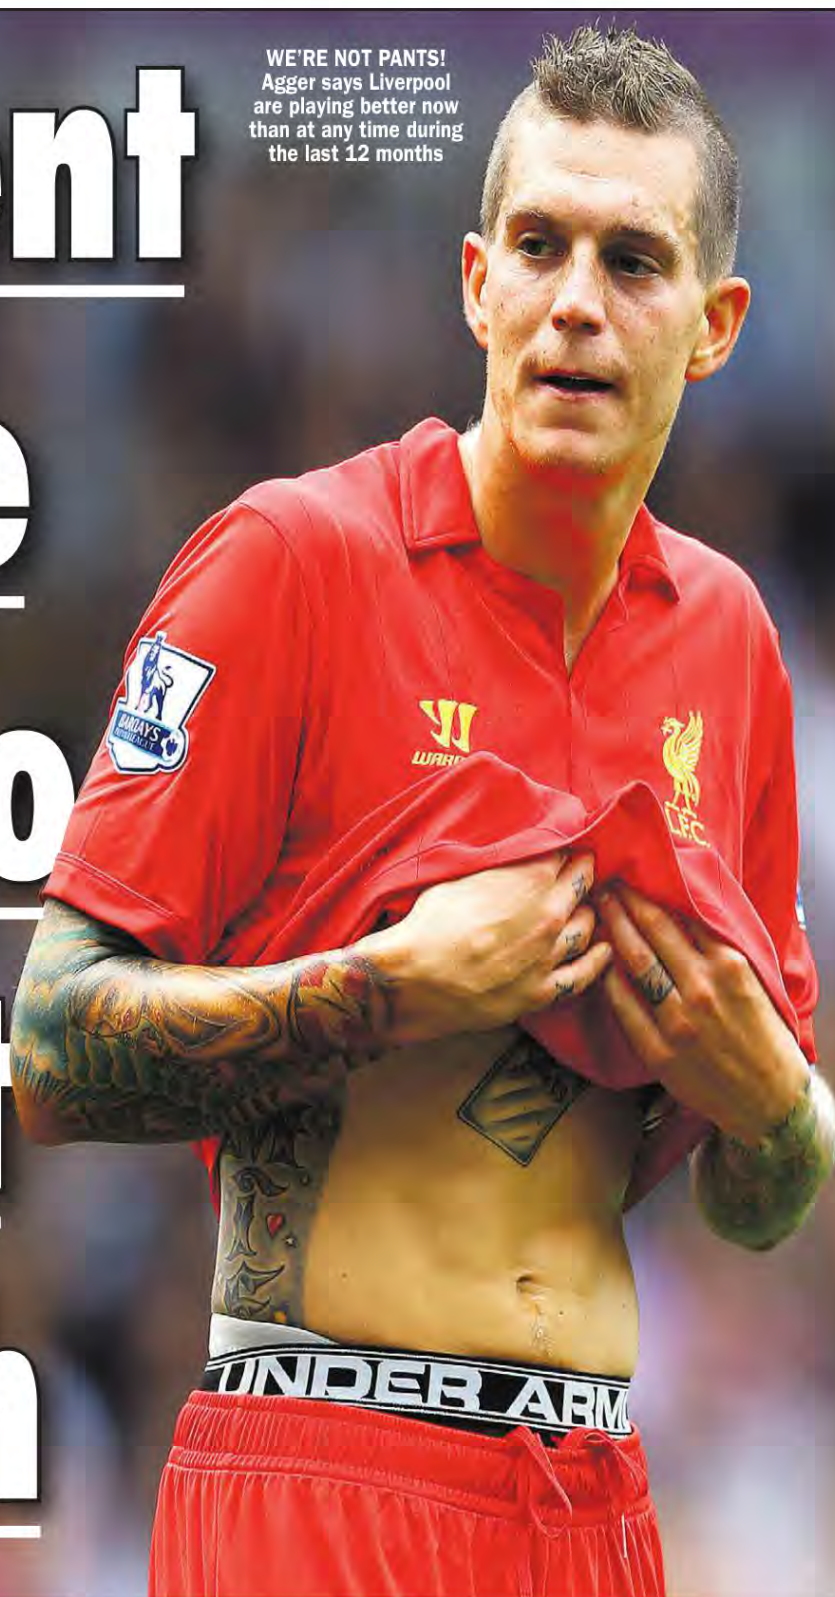

Crocked trio Demba Ba (hamstring), Davide Santon (groin) and Cheick Tiote (hamstring), who limped off against Wigan, have been given the all-clear to face Bordeaux.

But boss Alan Pardew is unlikely to risk them ahead of Monday's return to Premier League action at Fulham, where Hatem Ben Arfa is also set to be available.

Pardew said: "I want to let our fans know early on it will not be the team which played against Wigan. I'll be resting a few players for sure."

WE'RE NOT PANTS!
 Agger says Liverpool are playing better now than at any time during the last 12 months

DANIEL AGGER insists that Liverpool head for Italy in great shape - even if they are fighting to keep their season alive.

The Reds will be dumped out of the Europa League if they lose to Udinese and Young Boys avoid defeat to Anzhi Makhachkala in Switzerland tomorrow.

And that will pile the pressure on Kop boss Brendan Rodgers.

Liverpool are anchored in mid-table after just two top-flight wins in seven games.

But Reds defender Agger has warned Udinese not to be fooled by Liverpool's position in the Premier League.

The tough-tackling Dane insists Liverpool are playing better than

EUROPA LEAGUE - Thursday, 6pm, ITV4

at any other time over the last 12 months.

Agger said: "The last couple of games we've played really well."

"I think the Tottenham game was one of the best games I've played in for a long time - we played them off the pitch."

"Confidence is a big thing here and I think we have it. We are brave on the ball, want to go forward and we are not just playing around - I think that is the difference."

"I think we are creating more chances than last season. I don't see the statistics but the feeling on the pitch is we are creating bigger chances. It is difficult to compare two seasons but it is feeling better now."

Udinese are looking to do a Euro double over the Reds after winning 3-2 at Anfield in October to become the first side to beat Liverpool at home in Europe since Fiorentina managed it in December 2009.

Unscathed

Liverpool have won two of their four group games, but will definitely advance if they defeat the ninth best team in Serie A.

Luis Suarez could start as he is suspended for Sunday's league trip to West Ham.

Rodgers may also select Lucas after he emerged unscathed from his comeback game against Southampton at the weekend. The Brazilian midfielder insists Liverpool can qualify for a place in the Champions League next season.

Lucas said: "The gap to third place is not too bad."

"If we had a few more wins we would be closer but we can't change that."

"We have a lot of games now and if we can get three or four wins in a row we will be very close to the top four."

"We just have to get more points, especially in the crucial time which is coming."

"If we can turn draws into wins it will be even better, but we have to keep believing as there are a lot of positive things at the moment."

BITTER PILL: Man United were knocked out by Basel last year

MAN UNITED v CLUJ

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE
 Tonight, 7.45pm, Sky Sports 4

PHIL JONES says he is still haunted by Man United's Champions League shambles and is desperate to reach this season's final.

Sir Alex Ferguson's troops failed to make the knockout stages 12 months ago and were forced to enter the Europa League.

But one year on they welcome Romanian side Cluj to Old Trafford knowing their place in the last 16 is secured. And England defender Jones is determined United make up for last year's shock early exit by going all the way to the final match.

He said: "It's not a nice feeling to get knocked out of the Champions League - especially when you're used to being in semi-finals and finals and winning it."

"For a club of Manchester United's stature it's not an easy thing to deal with - it was a bitter pill to swallow."

RAFAEL BENITEZ insists he has the full backing of Roman Abramovich – despite Chelsea teetering on the brink of an embarrassing Champions League exit.

The Blues will become the first holders to fail to progress beyond the group stage unless they can beat Nordsjaelland and Shakhtar Donetsk defeat Juventus.

The European campaign has already cost one Chelsea manager his job this season, with Roberto Di Matteo sacked after a 3-0 defeat in Turin.

But since being installed as Di Matteo's successor, Benitez has endured a nightmare start with just two points from his three games in charge.

Saturday's defeat at West Ham prompted suggestions that former boss Avram Grant was being lined up to work alongside the Spaniard.

But Benitez said: "All the information I have is he is not coming."

Mistake

He added: "I spent a lot of time with Roman over the last 10 days."

"After the West Ham game, people were talking to him. We spoke and said the first half was good. We then made a mistake and we have to find solutions."

"The team looks stronger in defence but we have to analyse the problem we have."

"We have to manage better against teams that are strong physically. There are positives but there are things that we can improve."

The form of striker Fernando Torres is one of the things Benitez would most like to improve.

The Spain hitman hasn't scored in the Premier League for almost two months and his overall form has Struggling Rafa insists he's backed by Roman attracted a tidal wave of criticism.

Torres has been linked with a move away, with former club Atletico Madrid high on the list of possible destinations.

But the striker insists he is going nowhere.

He said: "One of the main reasons to come to Chelsea was that they are always aiming for trophies. I needed to win trophies because they are what you have after you have finished."

"In my first full season, we won the FA Cup and Champions League. What more can you ask? We have a chance now to win the FIFA Club World Cup."

Torres has been first choice striker since the summer departure of Didier Drogba.

He added: "I'm very happy about that because it's the role I like. Hopefully, it can be like this until the end of the season."

TOTTENHAM v PANATHINAIKOSEUROPA LEAGUE
Thursday, 8.05pm, ITV4

GYLFI SIGURDSSON is ready to step into Gareth Bale's boots at Spurs following injury to the star winger.

Bale pulled up with a hamstring problem against Fulham at the weekend and faces two weeks on the sidelines.

But Sigurdsson impressed at Craven Cottage when he came on for Bale and set up Jermain Defoe to score in the 3-0 win.

He is set to continue in the side when Spurs look for a Europa League point against Panathinaikos tomorrow to secure a place in the knockout stages of the competition.

"Unfortunately Gaz has pulled his hamstring," said Sigurdsson.

"Finally I did something – I got an assist and helped Jermain get a goal."

"When you come on you want to help the team finish the game off."

Michael Dawson was also crocked against the Cottagers as Andre Villas-Boas faces up to mounting injury worries.

Devastating

Players have been carrying knocks but still playing as Spurs look to compete for a top-four place and stay in Europe.

"The team has been absolutely amazing," said AVB.

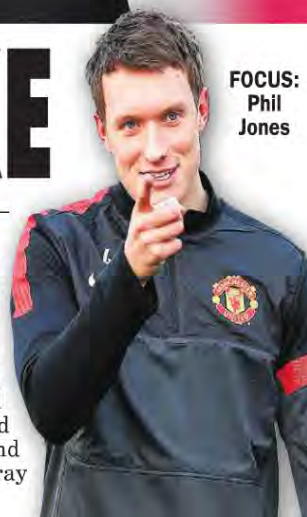

"The effort they have been putting in, whatever happened to us in the Europa League, the way we took it makes us very proud."

In-form striker Defoe insists Spurs have the squad to cover for the devastating loss of Bale.

Defoe said: "Luckily we've got a strong group, we've got some great players who can come in and play out of position – players who can adapt and do a job for the team."

"Obviously Gaz is a massive blow for the team because you can't really replace a player like that, but I think someone else can come in."

"When Gaz went off, Clint Dempsey went over to the left and has done well, so I think we'll be okay."

FOCUS: Phil Jones

MORE THAN JONES CAN TAKE

to. That is credit to ourselves and hopefully we can kick on and go a long way in the competition."

United will learn their final 16 opponents on December 20.

Sir Alex Ferguson's troops won their first four games before slipping to a 1-0 defeat against Galatasaray in Turkey last month.

But they will still qualify as Group H leaders, whatever happens against Cluj.

Relishing

Jones added: "There are no bad teams in the Champions League."

"It doesn't matter who you get, it's always going to be a very difficult game, home and away. We're just looking forward to being in the knockout stages and are relishing the challenge."

With one eye firmly on Sunday's derby at Manchester City, Ferguson is expected to rest several senior stars against Cluj.

Ryan Giggs, Tom Cleverley and Javier Hernandez – unused substitutes in the 4-3 win at Reading last Saturday – are set to start.

But Ferguson may also give the likes of Nick Powell and Federico Macheda an outing.

Cluj begin their final group game third in the table, but can still qualify if they avoid defeat against United and second-placed Galatasaray lose away to Braga.

It's no wins in six as City flops crash and burn

ROBERTO MANCINI'S continental flops crashed out of Europe after another terrible Champions League night.

Julian Schieber's 57th-minute winner denied red-faced Man City a place in the Europa League – and ensured they finished rock bottom in Group D.

They needed a win in Dortmund but faded badly after a bright start.

The result means City exit Europe without winning any of their six group games – the first English club to do so.

And it piles the pressure on Mancini ahead of Sunday's derby with Premier League leaders Manchester United at the Etihad Stadium.

Hurt

City played like a team with something to prove in the first half in Germany.

They showed an urgency rarely seen this season, carving out the better chances without managing to hurt Dortmund before the break.

Edin Dzeko, no stranger to Bundesliga fans after a successful spell at Wolfsburg, was particularly lively.

The Bosnian striker forced a fine save from Roman Wendenfeller with a powerful low drive from 30 yards.

Earlier, Dzeko had done well to cut the ball across the face of goal but it was cleared from the toes of

PRESSURE: Mancini

Carlos Tevez before the Argentine could cause any damage.

Having already qualified for the last 16, Dortmund took the opportunity to blood a number of players who had rarely featured in Europe this term.

Oliver Kirch tested Joe Hart from the edge of the area before Marco Reus shaved the post.

For all his good work in the first half, Dzeko should have broken the deadlock in the opening moments of the second half.

He looked set to pounce after an inch-perfect cross by Samir Nasri, but the City striker's header lacked any power and Wendenfeller was able to save easily.

Dortmund roared back and only two excellent Hart saves prevented City from falling behind. The England keeper did well to tip Ivan Perisic's 20-yard volley over the bar before keeping out a drive from Kevin Grosskreutz.

But Hart was unable to prevent Schieber firing the German side into a 58th-minute lead.

Half-time sub Jakub Blaszczykowski made the goal with a sublime cross from the right which allowed Schieber to slide in and find the net from close range.

Moments later Schieber found himself in on goal but his cheeky attempted chip was clutched by the stretching Hart.

Whimper

Mancini sent on Mario Balotelli, but it was Tevez who almost equalised in the 68th minute with a shot which was beaten out by Wendenfeller.

In the end City were fortunate not to suffer a heavier defeat.

Hart made another excellent save to keep out sub Robert Lewandowski.

Sub Sergio Aguero was denied at the other end.

But City's expensive players slipped out of Europe with a whimper, leaving Mancini to face a barrage of questions about another failed Champions League campaign.

HARD GRAFT: Arsenal striker Gervinho gets stuck in at the Georgios Karaiskakis Stadium

SORRY

ARSENE WENGER'S living nightmare continues – and there could be worse to come when Arsenal resume their Champions League campaign in the New Year.

After seeing Tomas Rosicky give the Gunners a first-half lead, Wenger's men were crushed by goals from Giannis Maniatis and Kostas Mitroglou.

That meant Arsenal blew their chance to top Group B and are now likely to be drawn with one of Europe's heavyweights in the last 16.

And after the last few weeks, no-one will be surprised to learn they lacked the bottle to see this through.

With a place in the knockout stages already assured, it was a rare chance for Wenger and his players to take a break from the pressure building up at home.

Saturday's home defeat by Swansea prompted the latest round of criticism of the Frenchman and his failure to build a trophy-winning side.

And the manager attracted ridicule when he claimed the club was in an "excellent state".

Critics claimed Wenger was half right, but that the club's impressive bank balance was in stark contrast to the deficit they have shown on the pitch. This was a chance for Wenger's fringe players to show there's a backlog of talent at the Emirates.

OLYMPIAKOS 2
ARSENAL 1

The manager made seven changes from the side that had their wings clipped by the Swans, with Sebastien Squillaci starting his first game since January and left-back Jernade Meade making his debut.

Gervinho, Marouane Chamakh and Rosicky also got the chance to press their claims.

Initially it looked as though Wenger's side would cruise past their Greek opponents.

Composure

Gervinho and Chamakh caused problems and Aaron Ramsey blew a superb early chance when he mislaid a shot from just 12 yards.

Slowly Olympiakos forced their way back into the game and Arsenal keeper Wojciech Szczesny was under the cosh.

Vasilis Torosidis saw a header cleared off the line and with more composure the Greeks would have been in control. But Arsenal weathered the storm and forced their way in front in the 38th minute.

Gervinho had got into the bad habit of running up blind alleys. But for once he showed great composure and awareness to pull the ball back for Rosicky, who finished coolly.

The Gunners escaped more pressure and at half-time there were enough positive signs for Wenger to be satisfied.

Andrey Arshavin came on for Rosicky and the Russian quickly made his presence felt, twice coming close to adding a second.

First he headed over when Chamakh sent in a long, sweeping cross that caught out the home defence.

Then he tested Olympiakos' Northern Ireland keeper Roy Carroll with a powerful shot.

Arsenal were barely troubled – but they have made a habit of collapsing easily this year.

And that's what happened when Maniatis levelled in the 64th minute after the Gunners failed to deal with a corner.

Moments later Rafik Djebbour should have put the Greeks ahead with a diving header.

But Olympiakos didn't have to wait long for a second, with sub Mitroglou beating Szczesny with a long-range effort.

We're right behind Rafa!

JUAN MATA insists Chelsea's players are fully behind Rafael Benitez's mini-revolution.

The interim Blues boss has had a nightmare start to life at Stamford Bridge – but Mata (right) reckons there's no hint of unrest in the dressing room ahead of tonight's make-or-break Champions League tie at home to Nordsjaelland.

"We trust him because Rafa wants the best for the team," Mata said. "If we want to win the Club World Cup, or the Premier League or the other competitions, we have to do better."

"Rafa is a very experienced manager and he's trying to help us – and we're trying to help him."

"If we want to win, if we want to lift trophies this season, we have to be all together and fight as a unit."

EUR NOT GOOD ENOUGH: Kompany, Hart and Nasri feel the pain of defeat

City's flops miss out on Europa League after Dortmund disaster

JOE HART slammed his Manchester City teammates after another Euro flop and said: "We've let ourselves down."

Roberto Mancini's troops travelled to group leaders Dortmund last night needing a win to have any chance of finishing third and at least making the Europa League. But it was yet another night of pain as they went down 1-0 to Julian Schieber's second-half strike.

It meant City exited the Champions League rock-bottom of Group D without a single win from their six games – the first time an English club has managed that feat.

Keeper Hart said: "We've let ourselves down, there's no question about that."

"We've been disappointing in Europe and we need to address that."

"It was the same old story. The intensity was there but once they scored it disappeared, which is a shame as we've shown we're a side that can come from behind."

"Of course we've let ourselves down, because we haven't even got in the Europa League."

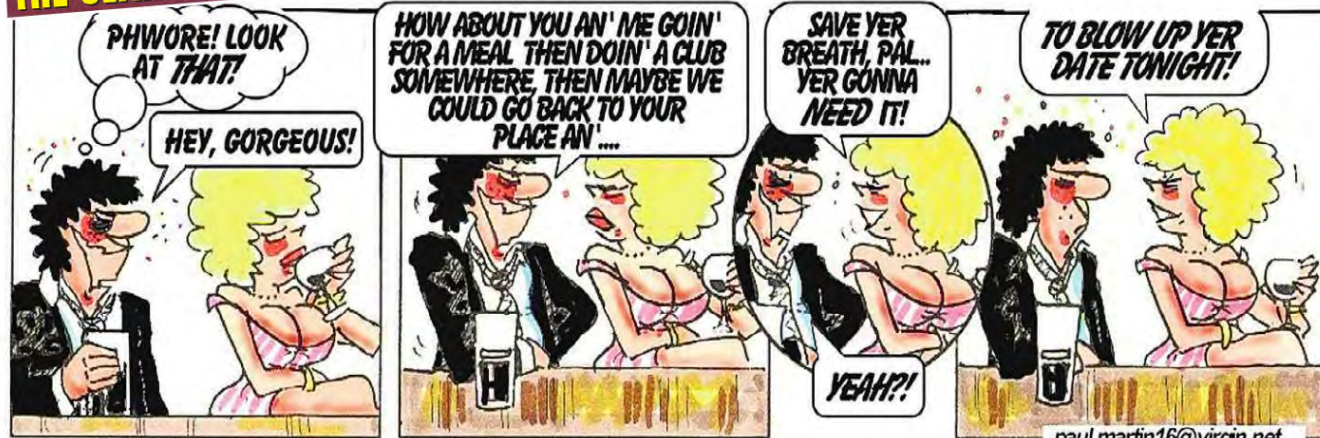

"We should be fighting to make the last 16 on the last day and we've only got ourselves to blame that we aren't."
